Seven Lose Lives in Terrific Storms

THE Board of Temperance of the Methodist church calls Noah, Nero and Alexander the "conspicuous drunks" of history, and points out that in their day whiskey has not been invented, and that they must therefore have acquired their drunks on the beverages now touted as "non-intoxicating."

Unfortunately for the argument, these historic drunks all came from Southern climates, and consequently belong to the "and wine" half of the question; which does not mean anything. "Beer and wine," in modern agitation, means "beer," but if we must rely on ancient examples, rather than on modern experience, illustrations can also be given from the less-known mythology of the North.

In Beowulf, the oldest literary monument of English speech, the theisms of Hrothgar were "beere druncen" and "meodu druncen;" that is, "beer drunk" and "mead drunk." And in the perhaps even older Finnish epic, the Kalevala, Väinämöinen not only invented beer, but got drunk on it. So, if we are to depend on literature, the wine of Noah, the mead of Väinämöinen, and the beer of Hrothgar were all intoxicating. So is Pilseener.

A CALIFORNIAN Indian has started an agitation to abolish the word "Indian" from official nomenclature and from American usage. "Indian," he says, properly means "native of India." The American aborigines should be called "The Red Race."

So far as the American Indians are concerned, it is a matter of sentiment, which perhaps few of them share. But there is a real reason of practical convenience, also. The American language has no word for "native of India." In English, they are "Indians." In Spanish, they are called "Indios." In the American aborigines should be called "The Red Race."

THERE are other racial words our language lacks. For instance, we have the derivative word "dago" to denote one sort of a white man, but we have not even an epithet to designate the other sort of white man.

We need a respectable word for the first, and some word for the second. There is such a word in Hawaiian. "Haele" means a white man of northwestern European race. In any racial census of Hawaii, the "haeles" are one group, while Portuguese, Spaniards and others are another. "Latin" is respectable, lacking the offensive atmosphere of "dago," but it is not colloquial; while "Nordic" is even less colloquial, and, besides, does not express exactly the same thing as "haele." We need a decent and respectful word to take the place of "dago," and we need "haele."

For that matter, even the word "white man" has the wrong connotation in many places. Japanese never use it, and do not like it. They say "foreigners." But they do not mean Chinese, Koreans, or Indians. "Foreigner" means white man. In most of the world, "European" means the same thing. Americans are "Europeans." Which, in fact, we are.

SENATOR BORAH says he wants codified world-laws before he will consent to a world-court. Yet Borah would be the last to suggest a world-legislature, to enact those laws. His very demand for "codification" assumes that international law already exists. Otherwise, the codifiers would be legislators.

And of course there is a vast body of international law which the court can adjudicate; some of it statutory, in treaties, and the rest at least as definite as the "common" law on which American and British jurisprudence rests. That common law has been codified in New York and not in Illinois. Yet Illinois has courts, and New York had them long before it adopted its code.

And in Massachusetts the supreme court gives "advisory" opinions, without being in the least the creature of the political departments of the state government. There is not a single fact, either in national analogies or in the record of the international court itself, to justify the senator's bugaboo. They are quibbles on words.

Why the City of Santa Ana Should Vote for the Water Bonds

By WALTER WRAY

Superintendent of Municipal Water System

The water bonds should be voted to provide a permanent supply of water for all city purposes, adequate for a city of 100,000 to 125,000.

By voting the water bonds, the city of Santa Ana will be supplied with a first-class gravity system, assuring the city a continuous water supply.

By voting the water bonds, the city will be assured an ample supply of water to handle any fire that may occur for the next 20 years.

By voting the bonds, you will establish a factor of safety for the city for fire-fighting purposes, and eliminate the dangerous fire hazard which the city is facing every minute of every day in the year, under our present pressure system.

When this new system is established, the necessity of drilling new wells and installing pumping machinery will cease to be an annual occurrence, and added cost to the city.

GIRL HEARS HER LOVE MISSIVES READ IN COURT

(By United Press)

CHICAGO, June 16.—Smiling and blushing, beautiful Isabelle Pope today went through the hardest ordeal—she saw her love affair with Billy McClintock, the "millionaire orphan," paraded in public in a crowded courtroom.

Isabelle was a witness for the prosecution, seeking to prove that William D. Shepherd murdered young McClintock, in order to obtain Billy's fortune.

But it was under cross-examination by William Scott Stewart, chief counsel for Shepherd's defense, that Miss Pope was called upon to test her nerve. She identified love letters she had written to Billy and heard them read in public.

Identifies Love Notes

Stewart handed Miss Pope the original letters she had written to Billy when he was away at Dartmouth college. She turned them over, looked at her own handwriting, read the endearing phrases and said: "Yes, I wrote these letters to Billy."

Stewart then read excerpts from them—he did not read them all. He read only portions which he considered vital to Shepherd's defense. They dealt chiefly with her attitude toward Billy's foster parents. Isabelle had testified previously that Billy did not love the Shepherds "as most boys love their parents," and that the Shepherds treated her coolly and prevented their marriage.

"I've just been to visit your father and mother. I had a splendid time. Your father served some wine and there were other guests. You don't mind if I drink a little wine at your own home, do you dear?"

Yes, She Wrote It

"Did you write that to Billy?" Stewart asked.

"Yes, I did," Isabelle replied.

"And did you have a good time?"

"Yes, I did."

Stewart read portions of nearly a dozen letters, some of them written on delicately tinted stationery. In one of them Isabelle referred to Mrs. Shepherd as "a perfect dear."

"Did you write that to Billy?" Stewart asked.

"Yes, I did," Miss Pope replied.

"And did you mean what you said—did you enjoy yourself in Mrs. Shepherd's presence, and did you think she was a perfect dear?"

"I did then," Isabelle replied, her lips twitching. There was a definite emphasis on the word "then."

The other letters told of Isabelle going to church with Mrs. Shepherd.

"Won't it be wonderful, dear," one of the letters stated, "when Mrs. Shepherd will not be your mother only, but will be your mother?" Won't that be lovely?"

Jury Wants Fairplay

The jury leaned forward to hear each word of the testimony. The crowded courtroom was hushed lest some word be lost.

Stewart ended his cross-examination of Miss Pope by asking her if it were not true she had entered into an agreement with Billy's distant heirs whereby, if Billy's will is broken and Shepherd loses the bulk of money, she would still be protected financially.

"Yes, that's true," she replied. She added that if the will was broken, as provided by the will which Shepherd drew up just before Billy died.

This, Stewart contends, is the reason that Miss Pope is testifying against Shepherd.

Miss Pope said it also was agreed to give Mrs. Shepherd $100,000 in event the will was broken.

50 PERSONS INJURED

Ditched Special Is Carrying to New York Passengers Bound for Germany

(By United Press)

HACKETTSTOWN, N. J., June 16.—Plunging into a debris-choked switch during last night's lightning storm, a special train on the Lackawanna railroad was wrecked near here with a loss of 28 lives. Fifty persons were injured severely and probably a score more received first aid treatment.

Six bodies had been taken from the wreckage of the train at noon, seven of 38 injured, who were taken to a hospital in Easton, Pa., died from their injuries during the morning, and one died in a hospital at Dover, Del.

Those who died in the hospital. In most instances, were victims of burns from steam which poured into the cars after the steam pipes on the train had broken.

The body of one victim was brought to Hackettstown in a private automobile later, the driver explaining he had been delayed by tire trouble. The man was believed to have died enroute.

Many injured unidentified. Many of the injured were still unidentified at noon today. They were taken to various hospitals in towns near the scene of the wreck.

The train was carrying a party of Germans from the middle west to New York, where they were to embark today on the liner Republic for Germany. The party was traveling under the direction of a tourist agency.

The heavy thunder storm prevailing at the time of the accident had clogged a switch with sand and other debris. The engine plunged down an embankment and was buried beneath three cars.

The scene of the wreck is in an isolated section. Farmers living in the neighborhood heard the crashing of the car above the noise of the storm.

CHORAL UNION MEMBERS WILL STAGE PICNIC

The Orange County Choral union will hold a box lunch picnic in Orange County park Tuesday evening, June 23, at 6:30 o'clock. Dancing in the pavilion, from 8 to 11 o'clock, will follow and all members, past, present and prospective, are cordially invited to attend with their friends of the music and drama association, which includes the community players, the band, and orchestra.

The women attending are to provide a box lunch and knives, forks, spoons, cups and plates for two persons.

The lunches are to be tagged with the donor's name and are to be sold to the men. Coffee, cream and sugar will be provided by the committee, under the direction of Mrs. J. C. Hayden.

The board of directors at its meeting Monday night learned from the financial report of the secretary-treasurer, that the organization had recovered from a deficit of over $500 and was now practically free from indebtedness. This achievement is undoubtedly due to the support given the music and drama association, the report said.

Plans have been made for carrying on the work of the Choral union along the lines which have enabled it to give the community four successful seasons of high class light opera, and committees by by-laws and membership were appointed with the view of placing the organization on a firm and permanent basis.

Any one interested in becoming a member of the Choral union is urged by the board to communicate with Mrs. C. A. McCullah, of Anaheim, who is chairman of the membership committee; A. H. Taylor, president; W. I. Stewart, secretary-treasurer; H. G. Merrill, Robt. L. Brown and Mrs. J. C. Hayden, directors.

Active work on production will commence early in September and it is probable that Choral union programs will be presented in local theaters during the summer.

INCOME EXEMPTION INCREASE HINTED

WASHINGTON, June 16.—Married men with incomes of less than $4,000 may be exempted from federal income tax next year, it appears from recent developments in the tax situation here.

Both treasury and congressional authorities, who are now working on the tax reduction to be negotiated by the December congress, profess that a $4,000 exemption may be adopted.

Between $4,000 and $6,000, the experts believe, the normal rate should run 2 per cent and over $6,000 4 per cent.

Senator Smoot, chairman of the senate finance committee and leader of the Mellon plan group, pronounced himself in favor of such a scheme. He and others believe it costs about as much to collect the tax on the married man's $4,000 income as the tax amounts to.

sense of isolation when one seems to have abandoned you! How se-

He is dead to you! You need

It is you, not God, who is blind and unfeeling. You demand what you think you want and refuse to recognize His love in sustain-these trying days. Give Him you.

The WELL-DRESSED MAN

By BEAUNASH
Correct Clothes To Meet The Obligation Of Every Occasion

DRESS FOR THE OCCASION

There is a venerable jest going the rounds that one can't tell nowadays whether the fashionable "flapper" of a debutante is dressed for a reception or an operation.
Similarly, men's clothes became, at one time, such a jumble of town and country; sport and street, that they were neither formal, semi-formal nor informal, but a mongrel mixture of the three. Knickers, designed for the course and the club exclusively, were worn here, there and everywhere except where they belong. Soft collars threatened to become the neckdress for every place and purpose, from backwoods almost to ballroom. Rubber-soled shoes marched into town. "Slam-down" or reversed brim hats, meant for field and knockabout alone, went to the head for business. The era of "careful carelessness" in dress, regardless of the traditional obligation of occasion, had men in its grip and was in a fair way to make a pulp of correct usage.

Now, The Well-Dressed Man is not merely one who wears clothes of fine quality and good style that fit him and become him. He is one who wears them where and when they ought to be worn; who draws proper distinctions between difference conditions and circumstances; who has what the high-brow terms social sophistication and the low-brow calls horse sense; who recognizes, with Lord Chesterfield, that "manners must adorn fashions" and that what is not good manners is never good style.

Keep your town and business clothes apart from your country and sporting clothes. Don't try to make one outfit cover every place and purpose. That is very like cooking, dining, sleeping and entertaining company in one room. Possess a wardrobe sufficiently varied to give you a reasonable choice and change of dress, from field to function. Keep your clothes in orderly arrangement, so that you may know in an instant what you have and what you need. Replenish frequently. Don't let your wardrobe run down.
Don't buy only by the season; buy by your needs.

The 2-button, peaked or semi-peaked lapel suit, portrayed in the accompanying sketch, is a smart Springtime style-model for young men and men who are not young, but refuse to admit it.
It has the soft front; the fairly straight-hanging back and no vent.
The front is gradually rounded off. The coat has flap pockets; is quarter-lined and roundabout 30 inches long. Trousers are fairly, though not excessively, wide. This is one of the correct styles for town, lounge and business wear in any color that is becoming to you.

I love,
And winds that are

Clarence Nisson, 30, son of Matt Nisson, 2500 North Main street, is at the Santa Ana Valley hospital suffering from a broken leg, sustained yesterday while he was working in a field at the corner of Red Hill and Mitchell avenues, Tustin. Nisson was hitching two mules to a sub-soller, when the mules ran away. He fell, was caught by the implement and dragged for 20 feet.

Thursday afternoon and evening June 25 have been set aside by the Orange County Hoosier association for a picnic which will be held at Orange County park. All former residents of Indiana are invited. The program will commence

BODIES OF MEN GOLDEN RULE
LOST IN OCEAN JURORS SOUGHT NOT RECOVERED IN WATER CASE

Although a diligent search is being made for the bodies of Edgar Morris, 18, and E. E. McClain, 57, two of the five Riverside men who lost their lives in Newport Harbor, early Sunday, when a heavy ground swell swamped the fishing boat "Thelma," the sea had not given up its dead at a late hour today.

Life guards, who have been watching on the coast, are of the opinion that the bodies probably were swept far out to sea, and that their ultimate recovery is problematical.

Funeral services for Jonathan
A. Morris, 37, one of the men whose body was recovered, were to have been held in Riverside this afternoon at the J. H. Plinn funeral chapel, with interment in Evergreen cemetery, there. Arrangements for the other two funerals had not been completed today.

The bodies of the three men, brought to the Smith and Tutthill funeral chapel here, following their recovery from the sea, were removed to Riverside after the inquest.

The "Thelma" still remains where she was last tossed on the bar, in front of the Corona Del Mar clubhouse. Men have been at work on her engine, but no effort has been made to tow the boat into deeper water. Experts said today that the craft was badly damaged.

At 3 o'clock and supper will be served at 6 o'clock.

Former residents of Henry county, Indiana, will hold a picnic on Sunday, June 21, at Brookside Park, Pasadena. Mark A. Fumars of Pasadena is president of this organization and Benj. W. Tompkins of Whittier is secretary.

Mrs. Durling who is working in the Penney's Dry Goods store, had a very interesting two weeks' vacation. She was at Tucson, Ariz., two days, going from there to the Grand Canyon, which she says is, of course, very wonderful. She also spent two days at Mormon Lake, Ariz. Her son, S. M. Durl-ing returned with her for a two months' visit.

Arrivals at St. Ann's Inn include Mrs. R. A. Strassforth, Los Angeles; W. F. McClure, Sacramento; Arthur H. Wright, San Diego; J.
H. Williams, Huala; A. Sanders, S.
J. Higgins, Mr. and Mrs. John L.
Bacon, Bert A. Andrews, Henry
Love, C. Leavitt, Adalade Vogel,
E. E. Eckert, San Diego; Mrs.
Mada Stewart, Los Angeles; Mr.
and Mrs. M. Hensch, Los Angeles;
T. C. Milchen, Kansas City.

Considerable damage was done to the rear of the home of George Kellough, 1107 West Second street, at 4:50 o'clock yesterday afternoon when a water heater became overheated, setting fire to the building.
Fire company No. 1 answered the alarm and did not gain control of the flames until two lines of hose were put into action. The amount of damages was not estimated by fire department officials.

Among those registered at the Hotel Santa Ana are Miss E. Nor-ins, Los Angeles; Cora A. Fuller,
Los Angeles; Mr. and Mrs. Bowley
Le Henry, Rancho Santa Fe; Mr.
and Mrs. A. R. Williams, Riverside; Mrs. E. Caldwell, Billingham, Wn.;
J. S. Rice, Pasadena; Cora A. Lyon, and Claudine Deto, Oakland; Mr.
and Mrs. A. J. Block, Rochester, N. Y.; Mr. and Mrs. J. J. C. Keefe,
Los Angeles; Mr. and Mrs. A. J.
Matthews, Los Angeles.

At a meeting of the officers and associated directors of the Orange poration held at its offices, Main and clared on the corporation's prefer-

Clergymen Are Honest Humans,
Trial Reveals

LONDON, June 16.—Some unique honesty tests recently were tried by a British newspaper.

A $10 bill was sent to 10 clergymen, 10 lawyers, 10 journalists and 10 scientists, with false explanation that it was "in adjustment of the error complained of in your account."

Only 25 per cent of the people returned the money. The clergymen were found to be the most honest class, but only seven of them sent it back. Not one scientist returned the money.

SEEKS $16,000
AS RECOMPENSE FOR INJURIES

Howard McDonald, of Santa Ana, was overtaken today by a damage suit that he encountered two years ago, while motoring near Cheyenne, Wyo.

H. L. Davis, who claims to have been severely injured when his motorcycle collided with McDonald's car, five miles south of Cheyenne, on July 31, 1923, today had a suit on file against McDonald in superior court here, asking $16, 748.25 damages. Of this sum $15, 000 was asked for injuries, the balance for loss of wages, motorcycle repairs, medical and hospital bills.

According to the complaint Davis was cut about the face and head, while his left shoulder was broken and permanently crippled.
He charges that McDonald was speeding on the wrong side of the highway and encountered Davis at the top of a hill. Attorney Russell Pray, of Long Beach, represents Davis, who is now at the beach city.

MELENZ JAILED ON FAILURE TO FURNISH BONDS

Ed Melenz, 27, charged with attempted murder, in connection with the shooting affray between Daniel Mendez, 20, and Officers Dan Adams and Bob Elliott, early Sunday morning, near New Hope, in which Daniel Mendez was mortally wounded, was held to the superior court, on $2000 bail, in justice court early today.

Ed Mendez is charged with shooting from a house at Elliott, during the course of the battle between the officers and Daniel Mendez.

Following the hearing today, Mendez, who was unable to furnish bail, was returned to the county jail.

Inquest into the death of Daniel Mendez, held in the Winbiger Mission Funeral home, at 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon, resulted in the jury returning a verdict, complimenting the officers in performing their duty, even though it meant the life of the man they sought to arrest.

Officers Commended
The verdict was as follows: "Hemorrhage as result of revolver wound in stomach, from gun in hands of officers, while deceased was resisting arrest and firing at officers. We commend the officers for their efficiency in the discharge of their duties."

It was learned at the inquest over the body of Bernardo Garcia, 45, who was killed at 3 o'clock Sunday morning in a dance hall brawl at Seventeenth street and Garden Grove road, that Garcia was killed on his birthday anniversary and that the dance was being given by him in celebration of the event.

The inquest was held in the Gillogly undertaking parlors at Orange, at 4 o'clock yesterday.

Witnesses also established the fact that Daniel Mendez was the man who shot Garcia through the heart, killing him. The coroner's verdict was as follows:

"Hemorrhage from revolver wound in lung, from revolver in hands of Daniel Mendez, with intent to kill."

Witnesses Testify
According to the testimony of two witnesses, Marie Flores and Olinda Flores, the shooting occurred when Garcia refused to continue the dance after 3 o'clock in the morning. The witnesses both testified that they did not believe that the Mendez brothers knew Garcia at the time of the killing. Members of the district attorney's office intimated that they would try to connect Ed Mendez with the shooting of Garcia as well as the assault on Bob Elliott.

SCHOOL NOTES

SPURGEON SCHOOL

The boys' and girls' indoor teams were rewarded for their good work and sportsmanship when they enjoyed a party given in their honor by Miss Blesener. Numerous contests, including a ball game, were held. Later the boys and girls were called to the kindergarten room where the best part of the party was waiting for them. A long table was decorated with beautiful flowers and at each place was a favor, a place card, a dainty napkin, and ice cream and cake. Several of the mothers were guests at the party.

The school house rang with cheers last Wednesday during the farewell party given the low sixth grade in honor of the high sixth grade. It was fine to witness the enthusiasm and school and class spirit displayed by all the boys and girls. The low sixth grade left nothing undone to make the party a grand success. Flowers and clever nuts cups and napkins, decorated with the class colors, made a pretty table. Ice cream and home-made cake were served by the girls of the low sixth grade. During the party each class presented Miss Sadie McClain with a gift as a token of their love for her and to show her they are sorry she is leaving Spurgeon school.

Thursday the high sixth grade held their class day program, which consisted of several appropriate recitations, the singing of their class song, and presentation of a fern stand as their gift to the school. The following boys and girls comprise the graduating class:

Man Reports to Serve Jail Term And Can't Get In

W. F. Wiscomb, 48, 9616 South Vermont street, Los Angeles, is in the county jail, but he had a hard time getting there.

Arrested and convicted several days ago, on a charge of speeding 55 miles an hour, and reckless driving, Wiscomb drew a five-day jail sentence.

He was scheduled to appear at the jail last night.

At the appointed time he was there, but the jailers would not let him in—he had no commitment.

To make matters worse, Justice Kenneth Morrison was not in the city.

After Wiscomb had waited several hours, Morrison returned to Santa Ana at 11 o'clock, went to his office, and made out the necessary papers.

Because of heavy business in justice court during the last week, the making out of the commitment for Wiscomb was overlooked, Morrison said.

ARREST YOUTH APPLYING FOR PERMIT TO WED

Harry Spelner, 21, Los Angeles truck driver, whose arrest today prevented him from marrying Edith Perry, 15, comes from rural stock.

In filling out the blank application for a marriage license at County Clerk J. M. Backs' office, Harry came to the question:

"Place of birth (state or country)."

"Born in the country," he wrote laboriously.

At that moment a heavy hand fell upon Harry's shoulder and he turned to gaze into the steely gray eye of Ed McClellan, chief criminal deputy sheriff.

The sheriff's office had been notified by the Los Angeles police to watch for Harry and Edith, and apprehend them if they appeared at the license bureau.

"Come with me, children," remarked McClellan, with a beckoning finger, and they meekly followed him to the sheriff's office.

The arrest leaves Harry in an embarrassing predicament, inasmuch as he had just sworn that Edith was 18 years old, when McClellan appeared.

Beggar, With $21
In Pocket, Won't
Pay $5 Court Fine

NEW YORK, June 16.—Accused of collecting $21.20 in small coins in one hour on the Bowery, Robert Cook, 46 years old, of 9 Bowery, pleaded guilty to begging, in night court.

Cook was sentenced to pay $10 or serve five days in jail by Magistrate Edward A. Weil, and when the sentence was pronounced, Cook said:

"Well, I would rather take the five days, for it was hard getting that $21."

He started in on his five-day sentence.

Cook was observed stopping persons along the Bowery by Patrolman Evergard Schafer, of the Oak Street station.

At the station house the prisoner was found to have $21.20 in small pieces, most of which was wrapped in a newspaper. This was exhibited in court and provoked Magistrate Weil to remark:

"You must have a sizable bank account. It must be a wonderful business you are in."

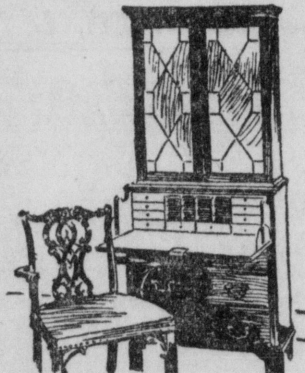

"No, I have no bank account. That's all the money I have," replied Cook.

WOMAN'S BACK STOPPED ACHING

I Suffered Three Years. Relieved by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

St. Paul, Minn.—"I have a little girl three years old and ever since her birth I have suffered with my back as if it were breaking in two and I had a bearing down feeling all the time. I also had dizzy spells and was sick at my stomach every month. I had read several letters from women in the newspapers and the druggist recommended Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to my husband for me. As a result of taking it my back has stopped aching and the awful bearing down feeling is gone. I feel stronger and do all of my housework and tend to my little girl. I have also taken Lydia E. Pinkham's Liver Pills for constipation. I have recommended these medicines to some of my friends and you may use this letter as a testimonial if you wish. I will be pleased to answer letters of other women if I can help them by telling them what this medicine has done for me."—Mrs. PRICE, 147 W. Summit Avenue, St. Paul, Minnesota.

Pleasant Features of Park Party Planned For Miss Whitney

An air of gayety and festivity still surrounded the office of the county recorder today where not only Miss Justine Whitney but all her deputies and aides were inclined to chat reminiscently of the pleasures of a park party given last night by the office force to honor their "chief," Miss Whitney, ere her departure for an extended visit in the east.

The entire affair was planned by the young women of the department who asked Miss Whitney to reserve the evening and be their guest for a steak bake at the park at 6 o'clock. The swift ride through the evening air to the county's favorite picnicking grounds, was sufficient to insure hearty appetites for thick and juicy steaks broiled to a turn over the hot coals. With the steaks were served all manner of other appetizing dishes to the merry-makers surrounding one of the long tables. Golden coreopsis centered the table most attractively.

As the supper drew to a close the supreme event of the evening came—and one that was indeed a surprise to the honoree. For her chief deputy, Miss Hattie Powers, in a little talk expressing the love that the young people all have for their "chief" presented her with a handsome amethyst ring—a "court-house ring" indeed and one which Miss Whitney will be proud to own.

The county recorder will leave June 24 for Watertown, New York, where she will spend July and August. Wishing her a happy summer and a pleasant trip were the following young women from her office: The Misses, Hattie Powers, Ruth Crosby, Neta Koonitz, Virginia Russell, Vera Trumble, Ruby Cameron, Margaret He Chapman, Grace Ott, Mabel Pruett, Emma Smith, Ada Brown, Blanche Westering, Clarissa Davis, Mary Barr, Mrs. Edith Schanley and three guests, Miss Mildred Smith, Mrs. Cora Swind, house-guest of Miss Whitney and the latter's niece, Mrs. Ruth Zabel.

Save the Band—Wedding Anniversary Happily Observed

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas C. Monkman celebrated their ninth wedding anniversary last Saturday evening by entertaining a group of dinner guests at their home, 417 South B street, Tustin. Among those present were Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Kidd and James K. Fairweather of Bontineau, N. D.

The enjoyable four course dinner served at 6:30 o'clock was followed by an interesting evening during which the hosts re-enacted the scene of their wedding nine years ago with J. C. Kidd as "master of ceremonies," Mrs. Kidd as bridesmaid and Mr. Fairweather as "best man." At the close of a very pleasant evening refreshments were served.

(Mrs. W. N. Cummings) Mary Clanton, Nellie Mai Chapman and Carson Smith.

Beautifully Appointed Was Church Wedding At Garden Grove

Of more than passing interest was the Garden Grove wedding on Wednesday afternoon, June 10, of Miss Marguerite Young, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. A. Young, and Albert Schneider, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. Schneider.

The Methodist Episcopal Church of Garden Grove was converted into a veritable garden for the occasion.

Leafy branches, palms and ferns softened the background while altar and choir loft were adorned with yellow marguerites and tall baskets of matillija poppies with potted ferns. White tulle extended in graceful festoons to baskets filled with canterbury bells and sweet-peas and high above two canary birds sang from their cages. Each pew was marked by a spray of fern and flowers in rainbow tints tied with tulle.

The musical program before the appointed hour for the nuptials opened with organ music played by John Pearson. Two beautiful songs, "D'Hardelot's 'Because'" and "I Love You Truly," by Carrie Jacobs Bond, were rendered by Mrs. Irvine German with Mr. German playing a violin obbligato, accompanied by Mr. Pearson. Mrs. German was charming in yellow georgette with hat to match.

As the stately strains of Lohengrin "Wedding March" were heard the Rev. David B. Lofthouse took his place at the altar. Following him were Mr. Schneider, with his best man, Virgil Brown, and the junior attendant, Waldie Abercrombie Jr.

Marching slowly down the aisle, the bridesmaids, gowned in rainbow colors with hats to match, made a most effective picture, each with a great basket of pink and lavender sweet peas and maiden hair fern. Entering first was Winifred Schneider, niece of the groom, in white georgette over yellow taffeta. Miss Margaret Thrall of San Francisco, cousin of the bride wore shell pink crepe de chine trimmed with lace. Miss Roberta Maxey, of Pasadena, chose two-toned orchid crepe de chine beautifully embroidered.

Miss Helen Martin of Santa Monica as honor maid, wore apple green georgette trimmed with silver lace.

Master John Matthews of this city in handsome little white suit, carefully bore a satin pillow on which lay the wedding ring.

Graham-Hull Wedding Was Pretty Event In Bride's Home

When charming Alberta Graham became the bride of young Ray Hull Sunday afternoon, it was at a pretty ceremony at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. G. A. Graham, 136 North Shaffer street, Orange, where myriads of flowers converted the rooms into a pink and white bow.

For the 3 o'clock ceremony, the young people were surrounded only by their "nearest and dearest" and took their places informally before a bank of ferns, pink and white roses and carnations, to the strains of Mendelssohn's Bridal chorus played by Miss Helen Joy Smith. The girl's bride wore a lovely frock of white satin crepe over which her tulle veil fell from a chaplet of pearls. A choker of pearls, the gift of her mother, encircled her throat and she carried blush pink roses and maidenhair fern as a bridal bouquet.

The nuptial vows were taken before the Rev. Otto S. Russell, pastor of the First Baptist church, and the impressive rite ceremony was used. A pleasant little reception followed during which Mr. and Mrs. Graham asked their guests to the dining-room where dainty sandwiches, coffee, bride's cake and ices were served.

Mr. and Mrs. Hull eluded their friends shortly after the refreshment hour and left for a week-end at the beach which will be followed at the end of this month by a more extended honeymoon at Big Bear. Their return was expected today and they were to go at once to the cozy little home which Mr. Hull built for his bride in Santa Ana Gardens.

Early in the school year an alumni association was effected and the business interval Friday night will be for the purpose of presenting the completed constitution to the members, by the president, Miss Della Franzen. Following this presentation and any discussion which may be occasioned, will be an entertaining program and the dancing which the young people love in the spacious rooms of the big home.

Aiding Mr. and Mrs. Nealley in their hospitality will be the officers of the organization, Miss Franzen, president; Miss Blanche Thompson, vice-president and Miss Elizabeth Bruner, secretary-treasurer. All one-year students at the college are reminded that they are as truly a part of it as the "grads" and are expected to take part in the evening's gayety.

Past Presidents

The home of Mrs. A. E. Chapman on South Flower street was the meeting place recently for the Past Presidents' club of the Daughters of Veterans who enjoyed the hospitality of the hostess and the delectable luncheon served at noon. The house was gay with clusters of flowers from Mrs. Chapman's gardens while baskets of beautiful Easter lilies graced the table and buffet in the dining-room.

At each place were attractive favors of bright-colored paper caps which the guests donned for the luncheon hour. In the afternoon the usual merry flow of conversation was enjoyed together with "listening in" on radio programs.

Enjoying the affair with the hostess, Mrs. Chapman, were Mesdames Flora Phillips, Leonora Ward, Eva Bell, May Thomas, Margaret Robertson, Elizabeth Adams, Caroline Leech, Floss La Gardner, Harriet Leipsic and Nellie Parker.

Departing Collegian Is Honor Guest at Friendly Party

Miss Irene Blower was hostess at a pretty party recently at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Phil Blower, 1720 Poinsettia street, when she honored her brother, Girard, soon to leave for the summer course at Berkeley.

The home was beautifully decorated with roses, sweet peas and other summer flowers in colorful variety. The hostess assisted by her mother, had a merry evening of games planned for entertainment. After the lively interval the young people enjoyed refreshments of ice cream served in halved cantelopes, cake and punch served by Miss Blower assisted by her mother, Mrs. Blower, Mrs. Charles Iurd and Mrs. G. Dennison.

Enjoying the evening were the Misses Dorothy Hurd, Cleo Bowers, Grace Dennison, Mamie Dennison, Nellie Irvine, Hazel Smith, Vivian Smith, Opal Etcheson, Gladys Finuf, Bernice Finuf, Dorothy Bement, Hazel Salisbury, Miss Pauline Pize of Los Angeles, Messrs. Merritt White, Ed Jones, Ray Walworth, Horrace Hagerty, Ralph Yetter, Lloyd Smith, Doris Myers, Fayette Bircher, Don Zaizer, Gail Harmon, Albert Blower, Elbert Blower, Dennis White of Orange, the hostess, Miss Blower and her brother, the guest of honor.

Save the Band—Junior College Grads To Enjoy Party

On Friday night, June 19, the hospitable Edward M. Nealley home at Tustin will again be thrown open to the young people of Santa Ana Junior college whose graduates and one-year students will meet for a merry party following a very short business session.

Early in the school year an alumni association was effected and the business interval Friday night will be for the purpose of presenting the completed constitution to the members, by the president, Miss Della Franzen. Following this presentation and any discussion which may be occasioned, will be an entertaining program and the dancing which the young people love in the spacious rooms of the big home.

June Bride-elect Has Friendly Courtesies Shown at Park

Among the many charming courtesies extended Miss Alice Mateer who on Wednesday at Riverside will become the bride of Minor Cox, none have given her more pleasure than the al fresco affair at Orange county park at which she was honor guest late last week.

An enjoyable supper was arranged for by the young women of the First National and Farmers and Merchants banks, as Miss Mateer has been connected with the book-keeping department of the former. Thirty merry-makers were seated around the long table for the enjoyment of the menu. Golden coreopsis filled a graceful basket centering the table.

As the supper progressed, Miss Mateer was delightfully surprised when a beautiful bride's cake was placed before her to be cut and served and at the same time she was presented with a dozen crystal goblets and an equal number of cocktail glasses.

Following the friendly hour around the supper table, the picknickers joined the dancers in the pavilion for the remainder of the evening.

Save the Band—Friends Gather For Farewell Party

Mrs. Luella Green and her young daughter, Miss Alberta Green, who reside at the home of Mrs. N. J. Jones and Miss Robbie Jones at 201 South Broadway, were very happily surprised recently when a company of their friends dropped in to spend a few hours and wish them bon voyage, as they were to leave yesterday for a trip to their old home in Howell, Mich. The Jones home was beautifully decorated with dahlias in vivid colors and the time was passed with merry games and social chat.

Late in the evening ice cream and cake were served to the company, which numbered Mrs. Jones and Miss Robbie Jones, Mrs. Green and Miss Alberta Green, Mr. and Mrs. L. W. Lauderbach, Mr. and Mrs. Archie Gordon and son, Alger, Mr. and Mrs. E. V. Cratsenburg and family, Mr. and Mrs. Eap McBay, Mrs. Mira Gordon and Miss Mildred Cratsenburg.

WILL EXPLAIN HEALTH VALUE OF FRUIT DIET

This evening, at 8 o'clock, in the Y. M. C. A., assembly room, health-seekers will have an opportunity of learning first-hand, from Clarke Irvine, "apostle of health," just how they may work marvelous cures of any ailment through natural foods, which Irvine claims to be the only true medicine. The lecture is free to the public. Irvine, who subsists solely upon "sun-cooked" fruits, is walking from San Diego to Los Angeles, eating only avocados, to prove that this fruit is a complete food in itself and worthy of a more important place on the American dietary. "The avocado should be a regular article on the menu," he says, "because it is a high energy carrier, with vitamins and other life elements."

Last year, Irvine climbed Mt. Shasta, a strenuous three-day trip, with raisins, figs and olives comprising his diet.

Badger State to License Sleuths

MADISON, Wis., June 16.—Labor organizations won their long fight in the legislature when the assembly concurred in the bill licensing detective agencies. The measure now goes to the governor. It provides that all detectives shall be licensed and before working in a town, village or city must report to the authorities, giving his full name and nature of the business he intends to investigate.

44,000 Storms Each Day, Says Scientist

LONDON, June 16.—Every day there are 44,000 thunderstorms in the world, says C. E. P. Brooks, British scientist, in a new book. Lightning flashes average 100 a second. He estimates the number of thunderstorms in a year at 16,000,000. Java, he says, is probably the most thundery region of the earth, while thunder is rarely heard in the arctic regions.

THE TORRENS LAND TITLE LAW

Santa Ana, June 15, 1925.
Editor Register:
There are roughly speaking, between 45,000 and 50,000 separate owners of land titles in Orange county. The cost of registering these titles under the Torrens Land Title law (known as the California Land Title law of 1914), would be about $30 for each parcel when registered in groups of 25. In cases of contests the cost per parcel would probably be more than double that amount, making at any rate a gross amount of business to be done in registering these titles represented by a minimum of $1,500,000.

Rightly or wrongly, the public feels that the Torrens law is in itself alright, that all the opposition comes from strongly financed and organized opposition of selfish interests. I am convinced that, if the private title companies, instead of discouraging (to put it mildly) the Torrens law, and making deals thereunder difficult and vexatious, were to advertise their willingness from now on to facilitate the operation of the Torrens Land law, instead of opposing it, they would not only make money, with their fine equipment for handling both the legal and the searching end of the business, but during the process would find the means, financial and otherwise, for readjustment, by the time the last title in Orange county had passed out of the old system into the new.

While, of course, the final effect of the general operation of the Torrens law would make a private title company a thing of the past, the title companies would make money and the public would be served. If this is not soon realized by the title companies, I am sure that the friends of the Torrens law will have the backing of the people, by a large majority, in making the Torrens law compulsory, after the passage of a proper amendment as to all probate proceedings, all partition suits and all quiet title proceedings; and even ultimately, if necessary, the law will be made compulsory as to all dealings in real estate that are filed or recorded. The title company that takes time by the forelock and does a general title business, including Torrens title registrations, will do a thriving business and get out of it several times the amount of its investment.

Yours respectfully,
HENRY J. WEEKS,
Room 211 Commercial Building.

HORSE RACING WILL FEATURE ANNUAL PICNIC

Horse racing will be a feature of the annual meeting of the Smart-Final Wholesale Grocery company, to be held Saturday, at Ganesha park, Pomona, it was announced here today by J. S. Smart, president of the company, and manager of the Santa Ana plant of the concern.

Wholesale houses and stores of the company will be closed all day Saturday, it was stated by Smart, just as an advance explanation of why telephone calls next Saturday will not be answered.

Employees of the toast plant and their families will mingle with the 400 or 500 persons expected to be present at the annual outing. They are due to report at the park at 9 a. m. The 1923 and 1924 picnics were held at Laguna Beach, but the "gang" decided to go inland this year and add horse racing to the program of sports. Smart will award prizes for winners in competitive sports.

Boy, 10, Is Piano Player of Ability

HULL, Mass., June 16.—Only 10 years old and yet quite an accomplished musician, is Ross Neal, son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Neal of this town. Note quite a year ago young Neal began to take piano lessons. Recently he played at a recital in Hull and astonished the audience with his poise and assurance.

The program is varied enough to suit all tastes and there will be something doing every minute. To add to the interest and excitement of the day, a mule race will be staged on the track at the fair grounds. In this event, there will be keen competition, for the mules will be ridden by representatives of the different branches. This will be at 2 o'clock and at 2:30 there will be a horse race in which some of the fastest horses in the Southland will be entered.

Teutons Peeved Because Swiss Drink Most Beer

MUNICH, June 16.—Every loyal Bavarian is mad as hops because he has been beaten at his own game. South Germans, famous for nothing if not for a solid beer and alcohol capacity, have had to take their hats off to the Swiss.

While the German beerverein members were sitting back in sleepy content over years of a duty well done, Switzerland stepped in and won the world championship for alcohol consumption.

Each Swiss modestly got away with seven and a half quarts of beer and other alcoholic beverages a day last year, statistics say. On the other hand, the Bavarians, heretofore leaders, fell back to second place with a mere six-quart allotment for the average person—in the average day!

Your Health

is affected by wrong hygienic habits

This NEW way in solving woman's oldest hygienic problem will mean much to you

SIXTY per cent of many women's disorders, doctors now point out, are often traceable to wrong hygienic methods. Now there is a new way... a way that supplants the dangers and uncertainties of the old-time sanitary pad. Physicians urge it. Women's doctors have adopted it. Hygienic authorities employ it. And your own peace of mind demands it. For it offers charm and immaculacy under any and all circumstances. The name is Kotex... a method scientifically right. It absorbs 5 times the moisture of the ordinary cotton pad. And that means great protection. It is as easily disposed of as a piece of tissue—that ends an old-time embarrassment. It is deodorized. And that prevents danger of offense. You can get it at any drug or department store, just by saying "Kotex." And that banishes the embarrassment of asking for a "sanitary pad." Eight in every ten women in the better walks of life have adopted it. Which proves its benefits. It will mean much to you in health, in daintiness and protection. It proves old ways a needless folly.

COOPERATIVE FARMING IN CALIFORNIA COMMENDED BY SECRETARY OF AGRICULTURE

By NEIL STANLEY

Farmers of California lead in co-operative marketing and the entire world looks to this state for leadership in that form of selling, William M. Jardine, secretary of agriculture, declared in a speech delivered at a luncheon given in his honor in the Biltmore hotel, Los Angeles, yesterday, by the California Development association and the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce.

Agricultural prosperity in this state is due directly to the cooperative plan and it is the lack of this system in other sections that is responsible for the depression that has existed there, Jardine continued.

"California is setting the pace in the marketing of goods and farmers everywhere are looking westward for their ideas," the secretary of agriculture said. "One of the reasons why I took this trip was to learn more about this system of selling your products."

State of Specialists
"California is a state of specialists and with specialists producing various crops has been able to make more than any other state in the Union."

"The reason why you people haven't felt the agricultural depression, which has existed in some parts, is because, under the cooperative plan, you were able to make readjustments quickly and efficiently," Jardine declared that conditions everywhere point to prosperity. This year looks very good indeed, said the secretary, in stating that farmers in every section of the country are optimistic.

"We are better off this year than last and I believe that 1925 will prove one of our most prosperous years," said Jardine. "The surplus that has been hurting us has been absorbed, and with good crops, we are in a very favorable position."

"There are some fundamental difficulties that must be overcome. The farmer must inject business methods into his farming. He cannot do it alone; he must work with his neighbors, like the farmers in California do."

Must Cut Overhead
"The consuming public will not stand for higher prices, and it is up to the farmer to get more money by cutting down his overhead. This can be accomplished by the use of the California cooperative plan of marketing."

Difficulties that obstruct the way must be removed by the farmers themselves and not by legislation, said Jardine.

"It is not more laws that the farmers need but more cooperation between one another," declared the nation's agricultural chief. "We may pass emergency measures to help the farmer, but these measures are only temporary at best and in the final analysis, it is the farmer himself who has the remedy."

"Closer sympathy between business men and farmers is needed. They need one another, for when there is an agricultural depression, the cities suffer as well."

"That big business everywhere is recognizing this fact is evidenced by the demands made upon my time by the big business executives. They keep in close touch with my office, for they know that a depression in one section will harm another section."

More Truth Needed
"A clearing of the atmosphere is needed. We need more simple truth and less tommyrot."

Quality and not quantity should be the watchword of the farmer, said Jardine, in pointing out that land values had increased from three to five times between 1900 and 1920. The agricultural chief cited examples of two cars of hogs shipped from a Kansas farm. Because they were of high grade stock, one lot brought a much better price than the other, he said.

Jardine stated that every section he has visited since he left Washington shows evidence of prosperity.

"The visit to the citrus packing plant in Ontario this morning proved conclusively that the farmers of California know how to cooperate with one another," said the secretary of agriculture. "When the farmers of other sections learn the lesson of cooperation, they will be able to make more money from their farms."

With his secretary, Jardine arrived in California early yesterday morning. He was met at San Bernardino by a group of prominent farmers and business men and was taken to the Mission Inn, at Riverside, for breakfast. Later, he was taken through a citrus packing

Claims Music Is Aid In Treatment Of Tuberculosis

MINNEAPOLIS, June 16.—Music as an aid in the treatment of tuberculosis was advocated before the American Sanatorium association at its annual meeting here by F. D. Bell, of the New York Tubercular associations.

Bell described the experience of the New York Tuberculosis association during the last year in bringing singers, violinists, pianists, harpists and others to the wards of sixteen hospitals in and around New York where tuberculosis patients are being treated.

In addition to musicians, various vaudeville actors and other entertainers were used. The value of this, Bell pointed out, is to divert the minds of the patients from themselves and their illnesses to other channels. The effect of this mental diversion, on the health of many patients in producing contentment and actual improvement in health has been marked.

According to Bell, the subject for entertainment selected must be light, diverting and hopeful. The musical numbers used were not classical, but were tuneful melodies and for the most part something familiar. Hundreds of musicians and entertainers of all types donated their services for the entertainments given under Bell's direction.

house in Ontario and then to the Biltmore hotel, in Los Angeles.

1500 Hear Jardine
Approximately 1500 persons crowded into the Biltmore ballroom to attend the luncheon and hear Jardine speak.

Following the luncheon, a conference with farmers' representatives was held in the Chamber of Commerce building. Among the Orange county men attending the luncheon and the conference were A. A. Brock, county horticultural commissioner; Harold E. Wahlberg, farm advisor; S. W. Stanley, president of the Orange County Farm bureau; A. M. Stanley, secretary-manager of the same organization, and C. V. Newman, manager of the San Joaquin ranch.

Jardine was scheduled to leave for the north today. He expects to be back in Washington early in July.

R. W. Fridham, president of the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce, presided at the luncheon. Among those sitting at the speaker's table were State Senator Spray, of Nevada; Robert Jensen, representative of the Utah governor; Casey Abbott, representing the governor of Arizona; Ralph Merritt, president of the California Raisin Growers association; Henry M. Robinson, noted banker; C. C. Teague, president of the California Walnut Growers association and G. H. Hecke, state director of agriculture.

BOY SCOUTS' CORNER

BOSTON MAN IS ELECTED HEAD OF BOY SCOUTS

James J. Storrow, of Boston, was unanimously elected president of the Boy Scouts of America, May 29, at the 15th annual meeting of the national council, held in New York City.

The new president has been closely identified with the Boy Scout movement for a number of years, having been a member of the executive board of the national council for the past six years, and chairman of the region covering all of the New England states.

Storrow is a member of the banking firm of Lee, Higginson & Co., chairman of the board of the Nash Motors company, and director in many business corporations.

He was chairman of the Boston school board for three years, 1905-1908, during which the schools of Boston were rescued from the domination of ward politics by the whole school administration was reorganized from top to bottom.

Storrow was good government candidate for mayor of Boston in 1909, but was defeated. Subsequently he was elected to the Boston city council and served for four years, being president of the council during the last year of his term.

During the war, Storrow was chairman of the Massachusetts committee on public safety, which was the pioneer organization of its kind in the country and became the model for similar organizations which were later established in every state in the Union, under the auspices of the Council of National Defense.

He also served as federal fuel administrator for New England during the war and when immediate action was necessary to relieve the acute coal shortage in New England, he pledged his personal credit for shipments of coal to New England and subsequently shipped and distributed at his personal risk more than a million tons of coal—a gross business exceeding $10,000,000.

He is a great lover of outdoor life and several years ago went on a camping trip beginning in the Grand canyon, in Arizona, and terminating at the Glacier National park in Montana, but his favorite recreation ground has been the White Mountain region of New Hampshire, in which he has taken camping trips annually for many years.

Storrow has always taken a great interest in work for boys. About 20 years ago, he established a boys' club in the city of Boston, which he still maintains, as well as a summer camp in Maine which is run in connection with the boys' club.

The election of Storrow marks the first change in the presidency in the history of the scout movement. Colin H. Livingstone, former president, held the position for 15 years. He was one of the sponsors of the movement in this country, and each year since its foundation has been reelected to the important position of leader.

STATES NOT EAGER TO GET TROPHIES

WASHINGTON, June 16.—Wanted: States to accept World war trophies. Apply to the war department.

This notice has been sent out, couched in more formal language, to governors of the 48 states, but there has been a little response.

"It looks as if the states want to forget all about the war and the United States' victory," a high officer of the war department lamented.

Only seven governors have replied, accepting their states' allotment of trophies, though all of the states have known for several years that the war souvenirs were available for the asking. The Wisconsin legislature definitely rejected the offer.

Every kind of German war device conceivable—from cannon to paper blankets—is in storage here waiting for a taker. It was assumed that almost every city and hamlet in the country would battle for the privilege of getting the choicest of these victory memorials. But now the federal government finds that it can not get rid of them.

Though army officers here are discouraged with the poor response, they say there are other explanations than indifference. For one thing, they say, fashions have changed; the old public square of Civil and Spanish war days, filled with heavy guns and cannon balls, is already full or else gone out of style.

Since some expense to the accepting states is involved, some governors have hesitated to authorize expenditure without legislative action and the legislatures have been too busy with other affairs. The individual states are obliged to pay freight.

The federal law of June, 1924, appropriated $20,000 for preparation of shipment of the trophies. North Dakota, with 10 allotments and New Hampshire, with one, have accepted their full quotas. Other states which have acknowledged the offer and accepted part of their allotments are Connecticut, Indiana, New Jersey, Virginia and Vermont. The remaining 41 states apparently are not interested in securing World war trophies.

BOY SCOUTS NOTES

Monthly activities of the county council for May showed a healthy program throughout the county. The wall chart maintained at scout headquarters, which shows what every troop in the county is doing and what the county organization is doing for every troop, told the following story: 110 Scouts registered, 14 Scouts dropped, 4 second class badges awarded, 2 first class badges awarded, 3 merit badges awarded, 10 troop meetings were visited by headquarters staff, 8 scoutmasters visited headquarters, 12 troops had additional enrollments, 5 troops re-registered, 8 troops went on camping trips, 42 weekly troop reports were received.

Camp RoKILI

The Pioneer Crew, under the direction of Mr. Lamb, was accomplishing many things when council officers visited the camp over Saturday and Sunday. Mr. Finch, president of the county organization, was most enthusiastic over the way the camping program was developing. He had nothing but praise for the pioneers who are getting everything ready, even the point of getting in and doing several hours' work of themselves while in camp. A new load of cement and all of the equipment necessary to complete the swimming pool was on the job early Tuesday morning, so Mr. Lamb promised Mr. Finch faithfully that he would have the swimming pool completed by the day camp opened on June 24, and from the way Lamb is doing his work, there is every reason to believe he will accomplish the task.

Garden Grove Troop No. 2
The Rev. George Taylor, who has served as scoutmaster for Garden Grove troop No. 2 for nearly two years, has resigned and Fred Schroeder has been placed in charge of the troop. The Rev. Mr. Taylor is going to his old home in England for the summer and will return to the Friends church, Whittier, when he gets back from this trip.

Santa Ana Troop No. 2
Santa Ana troop No. 2, recently held a special meeting on the banks of the Santa Ana river, below Riverside, where an enjoyable time was had.

Week End Good Turn

An overturned automobile, pinning a dying girl beneath its weight, furnished a recent test of preparedness to five Boy Scouts and their leader.

The accident occurred on a country road near Akron, O. Following the party was a car containing five Scouts of troop 19, in charge of Scoutmaster Parker Lowell. The night before the troop had been pronounced city champions in first aid, as a result of the annual Scout contests.

The boys first lifted the car and carried the injured girl to a hospital. The girl died shortly after her arrival. It was found that her spine was injured and several ribs were crushed.

"The boys stood up under the ordeal like veterans," said Lowell.

600 SCOUTS AT COUNTY RALLY IN FULLERTON

The regular county rally of the Orange County Council, Boy Scouts, held at Fullerton, in the grammar school auditorium, Friday evening, June 12, was attended by more than 600 Scouts and their friends. The program consisted of a tableau, during which Scout Sidney Schwartz, of Huntington Beach, troop No. 1, received the eagle badge, while the following named Scouts received star badges: Sidney Schwartz, Howard Phillips, Kenneth Callison, Henry Young, Edward Brown, Joe Henry Vavra, Anthony Mollica, Morris Moomaw, Huntington Beach troop No. 1; Scout Elmer Sylvester, troop No. 2, Huntington Beach; Richard C. Moore, troop No. 3, Huntington Beach; Scouts Eldon Bragg, Kurt Reher, Sven Reher, Seal Beach troop No. 1; Scouts Frank Miles and Kermit Gerald Vest of troop No. 1, Orange; Scouts Billie Reinhardt and Kiyoshi Higashi of troop No. 3, Santa Ana; Scout Jack Patmore of troop No. 10, Santa Ana; Scout Louis F. James, troop No. 4, Anaheim, and Scout Clarence Logue of La Habra No. 1.

The star badge requires that a scout must be first class and have five merit badges. This is the largest number of Scouts who have ever received the star badge at one time in Orange county.

After the tableau, the Knights of the Square table, a real Boy Scout picture, was shown and thoroughly enjoyed.

In closing the program, a boost was given for Camp RoKILI, and the indications were that scores of boys will attend the camp this year.

Then the attendance prize for the troop having the largest attendance was awarded to Fullerton troop No. 3, Karl Parks, scoutmaster.

Wild Orchids Are Found by Botanist

PARIS, Ill., June 16.—Vance Courtwright, a botanist, has made known a startling discovery. He declared that while walking on the bank of a river near Shelbyville, Ill., he discovered a clump of orchids attached to large trees. Courtwright states the growth is the same as found in the jungles of tropical countries. The bloom is said to be very rare in this part of the country. Dr. H. W. Ricketts, professor of botany in the University of Missouri, has written Courtwright congratulating him on his discovery. The growth was found in a limestone formation, which, according to authorities, is an almost unheard of occurrence.

Tobacco Banned In Fear of Gods Ruling Country

CALCUTTA, India, June 16.—Tibet, land of the mediaeval, has banned tobacco smoking lest the "powerful gods of the country" be displeased.

The Calcutta agency of a tobacco importing firm wrote the Tibetan government suggesting that the nation's revenue might be considerably increased by permitting the importation of cigars.

But the high and mighty Lhasa government wasn't having any. The habit, it replied, "might seriously displease the powerful gods of the country while the smoke might reasonably be expected adversely to affect the health of the people."

Scientist Is On Church Program

Burnell R. Ford, of Long Beach, scientist, entertainer and inventor, will entertain at the First Christian church, at 8 o'clock tonight, his program being under auspices of the Young Married People's class.

According to W. A. Gerrard, class teacher, Ford will divide the science of the outia board and what electricity will do in the future.

"Ford will present a series of interesting experiments which give a new insight into the wonders of science," Gerrard said. "It will be an entertainment of educational value. Known as the 'human dynamo,' the entertainer will light a candle from a stream of water from the tip of his tongue, and will demonstrate electric welding, with current flowing through his body. Scientific in every particular, what the entertainer does is more wonderful than magic."

Vienna Baker Is Fined $1,500,000

VIENNA, June 16.—A fine of $1,500,000 has just been inflicted on Fried, the general manager of the Anchor Bread works. In addition he is condemned to eight months in jail.

His offence is that of demanding too high a price for bread from March until September, 1924. The Anchor works supplies the largest part of the population of Vienna. Fried bought great quantities of corn at most favorable rates, and later on calculated the cost of the bread on the basis of the increased corn quotations.

As he did not make an excessive profit, business experts think the harsh sentence incomprehensible. And since the judges were not unanimous in fixing the sentence, Fried, so far, has been allowed to go free.

Help That Achy Back!

Is backache making you miserable? Are you constantly tired, weak, nervous and "blue"? Do you wonder why you feel so old—so utterly played out?

Have you suspected your kidneys? Your kidneys are the blood-filterers. Once they fall behind in their work there is slow poisoning of blood and nerves. Then is apt to come nagging backache, headaches, dizziness, getting up at night and other annoying or painful kidney irregularities.

Don't let kidney trouble get a firm hold. If your kidneys are sluggish, help them with a stimulant diuretic. Use Doan's Pills. Doan's act on the kidneys only. They are recommended the world over. Ask your neighbor!

Here is Santa Ana Proof:

Mrs. George Kettle, 626 Riverside Ave., says: "The grip left my kidneys in a bad shape and I had a heavy dull ache in my back. Every move I made caused pain and I was nervous and irritable, too. I also suffered from headaches. I used Doan's Pills from Rowley's Drug Store and they cured me of the attack."

URGES USE OF INITIATIVE AS INSTRUMENT TO REAPPORTION

Assemblyman Hartranft, of Fullerton, Tells Chamber He Will Back Movement

DECLARES SOUTHLAND IS GROWING RAPIDLY

Solon Explains Functions Of State Legislature to Junior Body in Santa Ana

Use of the initiative to secure reapportionment in California was advocated by Assemblyman S. C. Hartranft, of Fullerton, in a talk given at the junior chamber of commerce meeting in Ketter's cafe last night. Only by submitting the matter to the people, can Southern California ever hope to get equal representation in the state legislature, Hartranft declared, in voicing his willingness to back such a move.

Hartranft pointed out that the Southland is growing rapidly and that the time has come for reapportionment.

An interesting sketch of the functions of the state legislature was given by the speaker, who declared that the newcomer to the legislature feels much the same as a school boy entering a strange school for the first time.

Legislators Serious
"Despite the fact that there are some frivolous things done at the sessions, the majority of the senators and assemblymen are serious and are eager to represent their constituents," said Assemblyman Hartranft. "The work necessitates a great deal of real, honest labor, and when a man comes back home, he generally feels that he has been working."

Hartranft advocated that chambers of commerce and other organizations study the bills presented in the legislature and then advise their representatives as to the course they desire them to pursue. The directors of the senior chamber were the guests of the junior members at the meeting. It was announced that the members of the junior chamber of commerce have been invited to participate in the dedication of the senior body's new home next Monday evening. Led by the municipal band, an automobile parade of senior and junior members will form at Fourth and French streets at 7:30 o'clock and go to the new building.

Clyde Downing, president of the Santa Ana Municipal Band Campaign association, reported that between $400 and $500 was contributed Monday to the fund being raised this week through voluntary donations for the financing of the local band. Every dollar received will go toward upkeep of the band and the organization itself. No particular member will benefit, he stated.

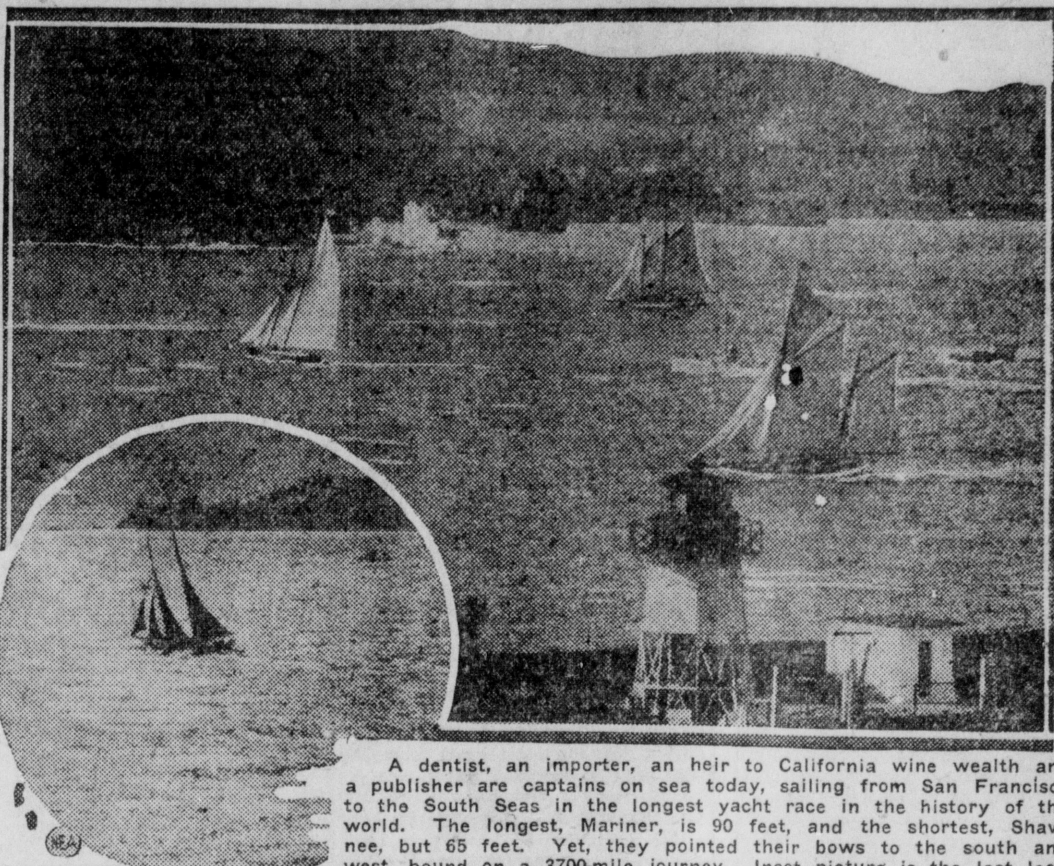

Gold Pencils Awarded
The winners of the four flights in the pre-tournament golf matches held by the chamber were awarded gold pencils at the meeting. The winners and their scores are: Bert West, 75; E. M. Sundquist, 85; Leo Hartfield, 106; Jack Campbell, 114. Chairman Park, of the golf committee, stated that the winner of the tournament would be presented with a silver loving cup.

Decision to hold a dance in the Dyerst dancing pavilion, at Newport Beach, was reached by the members. The date will be set later.

A dentist, an importer, an heir to California wine wealth and a publisher are captains on sea today, sailing from San Francisco to the South Seas in the longest yacht race in the history of the world. The longest, Mariner, is 90 feet, and the shortest, Shawnee, but 65 feet. Yet, they pointed their bows to the south and west, bound on a 3700-mile journey. CORNERSTONE OF Y. SUMMER LODGE IS LAID Christened with clear, sparkling water from headwaters of the Santa Ana river, and with a brief benediction, the cornerstone of the summer lodge, being built for the Y. M. C. A. of Orange county, by Orange county Lions clubs, was laid Saturday.

Pictures, which will be published in national Y. M. C. A. and Lions magazines, were taken of the ceremonies. A bottle, containing a parchment reading "To the better citizenship and Christian spirit of the boys of Orange county, the laying of this cornerstone by Santa Ana Lions, representing the oldest den in Orange county, and by Placentia Lions, representing the youngest den in Orange county, and on behalf of the Lions Service clubs of the county, we dedicate this cornerstone to Camp Ocoala, the Y. M. C. A. boys' summer camp of Orange county."

The big summer camp building, being constructed high in the San Bernardino mountains, is now well under way. A. R. Davis, of Placentia, is in charge of the construction. Lions from clubs all over Orange county are donating their services and time. H. E. Wahlberg, president of the Santa Ana den, and J. E. Headley, Roy Langley, William Ashford, and Frank Lane, of Santa Ana, and Avion Basten, John E. Scott and Charles E. Lee, of Placentia, worked two days on the foundation last week. Their names appear on the scroll buried in the mortar of the huge cornerstone. On Saturday, Lions from Garden Grove and Anaheim are expected to complete a portion of the work. Lions of Brea, Orange and Huntington Beach will donate their services on coming week ends, and when the building is completed a formal joint dedication will be observed.

Barr Appeals to Public for Help In Band Finance

By O. H. BARR
Director of the Santa Ana Municipal Band Campaign Association

The slogan, "Save the Band," suggests that an emergency is upon us and that a possible calamity confronts the community. Certainly one of the most delightful things in the social and musical life of Santa Ana for the last two years has been our Santa Ana band, organized and directed by Professor Cianfoni.

This organization, which has been of much cultural and advertising value to the city, has been accepted by most of us as "a matter of course," not realizing that we must assist, at least in a small way, to finance the organization.

We have a band to be proud of and a director of rare ability. We should all rally to the assistance of this important organization. Let us "Save the Band." It is worth much to this community.

WEST TO HEAR SUIT LIMITING OIL DISTRICT

Starting in the superior court here on demurrer, and passing through the appellate and supreme courts, the suit of the Pacific Palisades association, an organization affiliated with the Methodist Church Association of Southern California, to determine the right of Huntington Beach to limit oil operations to a definite zone, will come before the superior court here in the near future, it became known today.

The demurrer filed by the city was sustained by Judge Z. B. West and was affirmed by the appellate court. Taken to the supreme court, the latter court on June 9 gave a decision remanding the case for trial in the local superior court, and it will come before Judge Z. B. West. The ground under controversy is a block of 14 acres.

Reversed Decision
Amounting virtually to a reversal of the local superior court and the appellate court decisions, the supreme court held that the plaintiff had a right to present in court evidence sustaining its contention that the restriction adopted by the city, restricting oil drilling within certain districts, was discriminatory.

The supreme court decision reads in part:

"The city of Huntington Beach has the unquestioned right to regulate the business of operating oil wells within its limits, and to prohibit their operation within delineated areas and districts, if reason appears for so doing."

"The appellant should be accorded the opportunity to establish, if it can, the unreasonable and discriminatory character of the ordinance. The outcome of the controversy will, of course, depend upon the findings of the trial court when the issues have been finally submitted and determined."

Several points will be fought out between the city and the Palisades association, according to L. W. Blodgett, city attorney for Huntington Beach. The city of Huntington Beach will contend that the drilling of oil wells within the restricted area constitutes a menace to the public safety, health and welfare.

The Pacific Palisades company, it is believed, will endeavor to show that the ordinance passed was discriminatory. The company alleged in the former trial that the passage of the ordinance was "spite" work on the part of trustees of the city at that time.

Another portion of the decision which will have an important bearing on the case reads as follows:

"It must be taken as very definitely settled in this state, that the right to zone may be resorted to by municipalities upon a proper application of the police power. But such zoning must be reasonably necessary, and reasonably related to the health, safety, morals or general welfare of the community."

No date has as yet been set for the trial, which will be held in Santa Ana.

BAND TO GIVE FREE CONCERT THURSDAY EVE

Santa Ana Musicians Will Play In Appreciation of Public Financial Effort

The Santa Ana Municipal band will present a free open-air concert in Birch park Thursday evening, at 7:30 o'clock, complimentary to the general public and in appreciation of the effort being made this week to create by volunteer subscriptions a fund for maintenance of the band for the summer and winter.

The concert will be strictly an entertainment feature and there will be no solicitation for donations to the fund. This point was emphasized today by Clyde C. Downing, president of the Santa Ana Municipal Band campaign association, which is sponsoring the money-raising campaign.

Not Up to Expectations
"Save the Band week" opened yesterday rather auspiciously, yet the total of the volunteer contributions for the fund being created did not total the amount it was hoped it would, according to Harry Hanson, president of the band organization, and treasurer of the Santa Ana Municipal Band Campaign association.

Hanson pointed out that the band is not a charitable institution, but that it is a semi-civic organization which should be supported by the entire community.

The burden of maintaining it has devolved upon the members of the band, he said, with the men giving not only their time in perfecting the institution, but buying instruments and music and in paying the small salary the director is receiving. The president said that it was D. C. Cianfoni's personal interest and pride in the group, and his love for Santa Ana, that had prompted him to refuse many times in the past salary offers much more attractive than the compensation he is receiving.

Contributions Are Generous
According to Hanson, some of the contributions made so far have been very generous, when the financial standing of the donors was taken into consideration. Many checks have been received, accompanied by letters in which the donors have expressed themselves feelingly as to the importance of a large amount being raised for support of the band. The following from Mr. and Mrs. Sam D. Heckart is typical of most of the communications:

"Dear Mr. Harry: I was just in the act of selling my shirt when Mrs. Heckart came forward with $25 as our contribution to the band. We have enjoyed the band on several occasions, and we want to help keep it going. We know something of what it takes to keep you successful. We are at your service at all times."

Ad Valorem Tax Is Not Necessary

SACRAMENTO, June 16.—No ad valorem tax will be necessary to meet the state's revenue requirements of $22,000,000 for the next fiscal year, as directed by the 1925 legislature, it was announced by the state board of equalization.

The money will be raised from regular income sources, it was stated, which is in accordance with estimates of income furnished Governor Richardson and the legislature by the board.

The state's income to be derived from corporation taxes, direct taxes, year will total $41,352,461.20, and revenue from other sources will be $11,000,000, which will leave a surplus of more than $300,000 in the treasury at the end of the year, according to the board's estimates.

COUNCIL PUTS GET DEEDS FOR O. K. ON LAYING WATER MAINS RIGHT-OF-WAY

Installation of a 10-inch water main on Broadway from Sixth to First, and on First, from Broadway to Sycamore, was authorized by the city council at a brief session last night.

Walter Wray, superintendent of the municipal water system, said he expected to start work within a few weeks. The new and larger line will offer better fire protection on North Broadway, and, incidentally, to property in nearby blocks. Modern fire hydrants will be installed on the corners.

Open Paving Bids
That Ralph E. Welch, who has been engaged in contract paving work at Orange and Anaheim, has entered into competition with contractors here for some of the work in this city, was revealed with the opening of bids for three jobs.

He was low bidder for improving Van Ness avenue, from Fairview avenue to the Wilshire tract, his offer being 18.4 cents per square foot for six inch cement pavement. The total was $8890.88. The Griffith company was next lowest bidder, with an offer of 18.6 cents per square foot. The two contractors submitted identical bids for paving Garney street, Fifth to Sixth, each bid being 17.3 cents per square foot for five-inch work.

In view of the fact that Welch is a new man in the field, here, award of the Van Ness and Garney avenue jobs was deferred, pending investigation of his responsibility.

Griffith Firm Gets Work
The Griffith company was awarded the contract for improving the portions of South Artesia, West Walnut and West Pine streets with a five-inch cement pavement, on a bid totalling $15,573.79 for paving, curbing, sidewalk and four and six-inch sewer laterals. For the paving, Griffith submitted a bid of 18.4 cents per square foot.

Application of J. R. Dyer for a permit to operate a dance hall at the Elite hall, Third and French streets, was referred to Police Commissioner George McPhee. Discussions indicated that the request would be denied.

Application of J. C. Houston for appointment to the police force was referred to McPhee.

MOTHER AND SON COMPLETE HIGH SCHOOL AT SAME TIME

Marie and Keith Beisel in Class of 200 Here That Will Receive Sheepskins

BOY CAN'T HELP BUT BE MODEL STUDENT

Woman During Classroom Days Also Is President Of Parent-Teacher Body

It's been a busy time for at least two members of the Santa Ana high school graduating class this year.

Marie and Keith Beisel are the two, and among the more than 200 graduates they probably have been the busiest with their preparations for commencement exercises.

For one thing, in the midst of graduation week, Marie had to take time to celebrate her 20th wedding anniversary. And Keith, of course, wanted to attend the celebration, being interested. For Keith is Marie's son.

The same unique circumstances which made a high school pupil president of a Parent-Teacher association here during the last two years, gave the S. A. H. S. class of 1925 its distinction of numbering a mother and son in its ranks. It's the first time for Santa Ana, and for most any other place, so far as local information goes.

Keith Model Scholar
Keith Beisel has been a model scholar. How could he help it, some may ask, with the eye of his mother, as well as that of his teacher, upon him throughout his high school career?

But probably a better explanation is that he had, among other inspirations, the shining example of his mother's scholastic record. She made the every highest grades possible, in earning her diploma. She "made" the high school scholarship honor society. Naturally, Keith had to hustle to hold the family's respect. He has three younger brothers, which is sufficient comment.

In the matter of scholarship grades, his mother had an advantage, because she had been through it all before. This is her second sheepskin, her first being received nearly a quarter of a century ago. Yet she gets the thrill of commencement all anew and is now making plans to go on through junior college with her son.

Why She Goes to School
"Why do I do it?" she repeats the question. "For one thing, I think that the schools receive too much undeserved criticism, and that if parents would even visit the classes occasionally they would have more faith in the educational system."

The viewpoint of the teacher should be known by the parents, in order to realize the greatest cooperation in the students' welfare. "Then, too," she added, "I wanted to belong to the alumni of Santa Ana high school and be counted among its graduates."

Mrs. Beisel's interest in education has been evinced in more ways than by study. She was connected with local school affairs long before she became a student, and during 1923 and 1924, while she was a sophomore and junior in high school, she also served as president of the Parent-Teacher association of Julia Lathrop Junior high school.

Subsequent to her first graduation with high honors from the

"ADVENTURE" IS FILM OF GREAT INTEREST

If "Adventure," the latest cinematic thriller, which is showing at the West End Theater, has a thousand points of interest, it is because Victor Fleming, the producer, has put into this picture all those basic movie elements so dear to the heart of the average film fan.

To begin with, there is a crack-jack story with a South Sea locality written by the late Jack London, whose fertile brain has hatched out many a stirring action plot, of which "Adventure" is a typical example. Imagine a lone white man on one of the cannibal Solomon Islands waging a desperate single-handed battle against the rebellious native blacks, while his body is racked with black water fever. Imagine him collapsing and being saved from a fate worse than death by the timely arrival of a brave, courageous girl—this opens the way for adventure, doesn't it?

And the dramatic developments that follow, the dangers they face, and the risks they run furnish the nth degree of excitement and thrills. There is swift, unlimited action, much color and picturesque atmosphere, some hearty laughs and plenty of love and romance.

From the standpoint of acting, the picture may well be set up as a model. Tom Moore has the strong role of the young plantation owner, whom Fate overwhelms with a multitude of troubles; Pauline Starke gives a memorable performance as the woman soldier of fortune; Wallace Beery, as usual, is a very effective villain; and Raymond Hatton proves once again that he is one of the best character actors in filmdom.

"IS LOVE EVERYTHING?" AT YOST TONIGHT

An intensely dramatic, logical and luxuriously produced story is "Is Love Everything?", now playing at the Yost theater. It features Alma Rubens, Frank Mayo, H. B. Warner and other well known players.

Alma Rubens, looking very beautiful in her stunning gowns, has the part of a young wife of a wealthy man who, becoming jealous of her old lover, conceives the Machiavellian scheme of putting her loyalty to the test. He throws the two into constant association on a long yacht cruise, gives them every opportunity to renew their old love affair and sits waiting, half fearful, for the result.

Then fate takes a hand in the scheme. The yacht is wrecked and the two old lovers find themselves the sole survivors. Stripped of the luxurious ease that has always surrounded her, facing the perils of this new adventure, and in the face of death realizing how sweet is life and love, their elemental natures conquer and they find that the embers that have glowed in their hearts have sprung again into flaming passion.

Follows then their rescue, thrill-matched. The kid figures that if he ship, their final escape and return home confident that now she is free of the bonds of an unhappy marriage, happiness is in store for them. Then comes another unexpected and dramatic twist to the story that is filled with suspense and alive with sensations.

"RAFFLES" CLOSING AT WALKER'S TONIGHT

Not a crook among gentlemen, but a gentleman among crooks. That's Raffles! And House Peters plays the title role of the famous amateur crackman which closes at Walker's theater tonight. "Raffles" is, perhaps, the most outstanding figure in the whole realm of detective fiction. He stole for charity and amazed the shrewdest sleuths of Scotland Yard with his daring and skill. The world took Raffles seriously, but the crackman mocked seriousness. He lived for others and others lived for him only in the respect that he was their prey—they hunted him. In reality, it was otherwise. The world and London aristocracy in particular, was the unwilling and, for a time, unsuspecting prey of the elusive gentleman-crook who also woos and wins a nobleman's daughter.

On a wager with Captain Bedford of Scotland Yard, Raffles accomplishes the apparently impossible. He steals, in a mysterious and uncanny way, a string of priceless gems from an "impregnable" wall vault from right under the eyes of the seasoned sleuth. But, more baffling than the theft, is the mysterious return of the gems. A charitable organization is the richer for "Raffles's" daring, for the wager which the crackman won from Scotland Yard's chief is given over to the Soldiers' Fund.

Rescue Planes at Spitzbergen Are Ready for Start

SPITZBERGEN, June 16.—The two airplanes to scout the polar ice rim for trace of the Amundsen-Ellsworth north pole flyers are ready to start. They have already made trial flights successfully, following their arrival aboard the steamer Ingertre, at Advent bay, but cloudy weather is temporarily delaying their start.

The Amundsen relief ships also will proceed to the edge of the ice, but the steamer Heimdal will replace the Ingertre. Captain Hagerup, of the latter craft, will, it is understood, assume command of the Heimdal.

Hagerup emphasized that there are considerable ice packs along the edge of the ice field which will probably render difficult the search. For this reason, it was deemed to wait a few days for clearer weather before starting the airplane operations.

high school of Eureka Springs, Ark. Mrs. Beisel came to Santa Ana and married Neil Beisel. She has four sons in school here, Neil being a graduate, Edwin a sophomore, Alan in the eighth grade of Julia Lathrop junior high school, and Gordon, the youngest, in the fifth grade at Roosevelt school.

Memory of School Days
"I wouldn't exchange my school experiences for anything," she declares. "The student life, the friendships, the activities and the enthusiasm all form a memory treasure."

Mrs. Beisel admits that another thing that kept her busy was caring for the home and family of six while keeping up her studies. Subjects she carried the first term were civics, economics, English and United States history. During the second term she registered for showcard writing, algebra, typing and commercial geography.

But she mastered them all, kept house, celebrated her 20th wedding anniversary on the day the baccalaureate exercises were held and, with her son, Keith, kept generally busy.

FULLERTON, June 16.—Displaying a six and a half pound steelhead trout, A. E. Benedict, of 541 Main View avenue arrived yesterday in order to offer that his catch to the general "fish story." Benedict caught the large June Lake, Mono county, on a road which was made into the north counties last week. The roads in that section are reported to be in excellent condition, with a large amount of travel, and fine fishing.

Wintersburg

WINTERSBURG, June 16.—The graduates of the Oceanview grammar school were entertained by the pupils of the seventh grade at the school auditorium.

Games filled the early part of the evening, which began for the young people at 7 o'clock and terminated at 10:30 o'clock just prior to which time the company was invited to the banquet hall where, amid a profusion of decorations, carried out in the class colors of blue and orange, and refreshment table was spread.

The places for the graduates were marked by all day suckers, emblematic of the grammar school days they were leaving behind. Refreshments were served by four of the seventh grade girls, Marie McMillan, Evelyn Bely, Janet Ruth, and Mary McDonald. The girls "read the fortunes" of those present in a very amusing manner.

Prof. R. S. Shostag, Miss Evelyn Herring, Mrs. Betty Little, Miss A. Dahlman, Miss Rozina Walters, Mrs. A. Payne and Miss L. Talbert, teachers, were present.

The following graduates attended: Fred Slater, Travis Masonheimer, Lois Vandruft, Bernice Garrett, Verne Breeding, Elizabeth Sizer, Mary Kachuki, Mizuo Goto. The following seventh grade pupils also attended: Lucille Campbell, Marie Collins, May McDonald, Marie McMillan, Evelyn Slater, Bonny Fox, Evelyn Bely, Russell Kanawyer, Geraldine Gardner, Ray Breeding, Walter Applebury, Edwin Gothard, Linnie Nelson, Janet Ruthford, May Goto.

Ralph Smedley, secretary of the Santa Ana Y. M. C. A., gave the main address at the graduation exercises of Oceanview grammar school held in the school auditorium Friday evening, W. F. Slater, president of the school board, presented diplomas to eight students. The auditorium was decorated in carnations and ferns. The carnation is the class flower.

As a class play the graduates gave "Exchanges." The address of Mr. Smedley was preceded by two songs by third grade pupils, "Vacation Time" and "Black Boy." After the address, the seventh grade pupils sang "Santa Lucia." Miss A. Dahlman, one of the teachers, gave a vocal number and responded with an encore selection. The speech prepared by the class valedictorian, Mizuo Goto, was read by Lois Vandruft. Janet Ruthford gave the valedictory for the seventh grade. Many bouquets of flowers were presented to the graduates by the flower girls, Marie McMillan and Janet Ruthford of the seventh grade.

The pupils of Miss Dahlman, who will not be at this school next year, gave her a string of pearls as tokens of the esteem in which they hold her.

The monthly meeting of the Wintersburg Methodist Home Missionary society was held Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Emil Kettler. The election of officers was the most important feature of the business session. Mrs. E. M. Fox was made president, Mrs. E. Ray Moore, vice president, Mrs. W. F. The suggestion that a Junior Queen Esther society be organized was favorably considered. Plans for a picnic at Anaheim Landing at the July meeting of the society

Why we call them TRUE Low Pressure Balloons

THE comfort and cushioning you get out of balloon tires depends on how soft you can run them with safety to the tire.

Even two or three pounds make a big difference.

It is therefore important for you as a car owner to know that U. S. Royal Balloons need not be over-inflated to save them from early and uneven tread wear or tread separation.

U. S. Royal Balloons are built of Latex-treated Web Cord. They have the new U. S. "Low-Pressure Tread."

This construction provides long tire service at even lower pressures than have been recommended in the past.

True low pressure means extra cushioning, added comfort and less wear and tear on your car.

Don't compromise to save your tires. Ride on U. S. Royal True Low Pressure Balloons.

OREGON SCHOOL DECISION HAS BROAD EFFECT

WASHINGTON, June 16.—A child has a right to the kind of education his parents or guardians think he should have. This was the decision of the U. S. supreme court in the celebrated Oregon compulsory school law case, just handed down, which sets an important precedent in education and law.

"A child is not a mere creature of the state," the court held, in deciding that the Oregon law, which would have compelled all children between 8 and 16 years to attend a public school, was invalid and could not be enforced.

Owners of private and parochial schools all over the nation, attended by between 150,000 and 300,000 children, were jubilant over the decision. If the law had been upheld, such institutions would have been forced out of business in Oregon, and a precedent would have been set that might have been followed in other states.

Tennessee Law Falls

This statement of legal principle is expected by many to be the rock upon which Tennessee's anti-evolution law will be broken. The celebrated Scopes case at Dayton, Tenn., involving the constitutionality of the law prohibiting the teaching of evolution, has been set for trial July 10. The judge in the lower court may quash the indictment on the ground that the Oregon decision has established the rule that the state cannot prohibit in any form of instruction, or the Tennessee supreme court may rule out the law on the same ground, if the case gets that far.

The right and duty of parents and guardians was clearly stated in the unanimous opinion of the supreme court.

"Those who nurture the child and direct his destiny have the right, coupled with the high duty, to recognize and prepare him for additional obligations. We think it entirely plain that this law unreasonably interferes with the liberty of parents and guardians to direct the upbringing and education of children under their control."

Fundamental of Liberty

"The fundamental theory of liberty upon which all governments in this Union repose, excludes any general power of the state to standardize its children by forcing them to except instruction from public teachers only."

The Tennessee law in the evolution case is of course far different than the Oregon law declared invalid. The Tennessee law seeks to define what may be taught in the state's schools, while the Oregon law attempted to dictate only where a child should be taught.

But in a general way freedom of teaching was involved in the Oregon law and lawyers here who have watched the supreme court decisions for years believe that the court indicated that it regarded the right of the parent (in later life the individual) was paramount over the state in matters of education.

Apparently, also, the court regarded in its Oregon decision the question of education paramount over the property rights, also covered by the decision.

Adopted by Initiative

The Oregon law was adopted at an initiative election in 1922. It was to have taken effect in September, 1923. The court in holding the law unconstitutional upheld the arguments of the Hill Military academy and the Society of the Holy Name of Jesus and Mary, educational institutions which led the fight against the statute, that the state has not the power to drive a legally-incorporated company out of business.

The effect of this law would have been to force these and other private educational institutions out of business "without due process of law" the court held, in affirming the decisions of two lower courts granting the two institutions injunctions restraining Oregon state officials from enforcing the law. The court then pointed out that the lower courts had issued the injunctions on this contention also, without ruling on the validity of the law's principle. The decision then proceeded to the right of the child to the kind of education his parents think he should have—be it in private, parochial or public schools.

Oil Operator to Return for Trial

LOS ANGELES, June 16.—J. O. Mack, Houston oil operator, waived extradition yesterday and was returned to Texas at once to stand trial on charges of using the mails to defraud.

Mack was arrested in his Hollywood home Sunday, on an indictment returned by a federal grand jury in Texas. Mack is accused of swindling investors out of more than $100,000 in an oil stock selling scheme.

Mack maintains that he is innocent, and that his indictment was "framed" by his "enemies in Texas." He is under $50,000 bonds.

Racing Yachts Are 1000 Miles at Sea

SAN FRANCISCO, June 16.—Four San Francisco Yachts, on a cup race to Tahiti, were today approximately 1000 miles from here, nearly a third of their voyage completed, according to radio advices from the Idalia.

Frank Jument, San Jose amateur, reported picking up a message sent by Ray Newby, operator aboard the Idalia, yacht of Dr. E. R. Farker. Jument added Newby in installing the Idalia radio equipment.

The yachts were reported as having made the exceptional average of 10 miles an hour for 100 hours sailing. The Idalia's radio was damaged by wind and water, it was explained, preventing earlier communication.

Winner of the 200-mile race will receive a cup donated by Sir Thomas Lipton.

Kansas City to Be Traffic Hub Of Middle West

KANSAS CITY, Mo., June 16.—Road building programs of sweeping magnitude in eleven middle western states, outlined by highway officials of the Mississippi valley, point to Kansas City as a future tourist mecca and hub of a mid-west highway system.

Representatives of North Dakota, Iowa, Missouri, Nebraska, Minnesota, Kansas, Texas, Arkansas, Wyoming and Colorado highway commissions, conferring here recently with the American Association of State Highway Officials and the government bureau of public roads, drew up an elaborate plan of sectional roads as part of series of national highways.

Thirteen or 14 east and west highways and from three to five north and south roads were planned for this section. Kansas City was made the center of two east and west roads and two north and south roads. This provides a total of seven interstate highways radiating here, with four connections to St. Louis and Chicago. Kansas City is to be also the terminus of one north-south highway.

The conference was under the direction of E. W. James of the federal road bureau, in charge of coordination and designation of national highways. He anticipated the hard-surfacing of all the roads in incorporated in the system, and the general awakening of backward states to the importance of highway construction.

MANY SAN DIEGANS PRESENT AT TRIAL

Reading like a page from the San Diego city directory is the guest list of St. Ann's Inn, which, in addition to prominent city officials, includes many well known San Diego residents.

Heading the list are Mayor and Mrs. John L. Bacon. Other members of the mayor's official family are City Attorney S. J. Higgins, Engineer S. W. Williams, and Chief Deputy City Clerk Fred Sick.

These officials represent the city of San Diego in its condemnation suit against the Cuyamaca Water company, now being tried in Santa Ana.

Other San Diegans listed at the inn are Henry Love, well known newspaperman and staff writer, connected with the San Diego Union, and H. T. Bishop, staff photographer of the Union. Bert Andrews, special writer on the staff of the San Diego Sun, also is among the visitors. Others listed are A. F. H. Wright, prominent San Diego attorney; S. H. Halley, president of the Cuyamaca irrigation district; T. H. King and C. Harritt, consulting engineers; and C. C. Crouch, well known San Diego lawyer.

Man, On Drunken Rampage, Scars Inmates of Home

BURBANK, Calif., June 16.—Frank Zaro, 39, was held in jail here today on a charge of disorderly conduct, following a drunk-crazed rampage at the Mother Cabrini preventorium.

Zaro, according to police, terrorized the child inmates and sisters in the home, when he paraded through the hallways wielding a heavy stick.

None of the children was injured, but one of them was reported in an hysterical condition from fright.

Zaro was driver of a bus used to take the child inmates on outings.

Fleet's Advance Guard at Pedro

SAN PEDRO, June 16.—The advance guard of the war fleet, the light cruiser Detroit, has returned to the local harbor and took on fuel and stores today, preparatory for the trip to its home base on the Atlantic coast.

Several other units of the light cruiser division and the destroyer squadrons, which have been aiding the navy maneuvers off Hawaii, will return in the near future.

VANQUISH GAS COMPANY TEAM BY 6-5 SCORE

Pole-Climbers Overcome 5 Tally Lead to Glom Tie For City Championship

After almost three months of hard warfare, the championship of the Santa Ana Indoor Baseball league today had simmered down to a contest between two clubs—the Southern California Edison company and the John McFadden Hardware company.

Meeting in a joust that was postponed on account of rain two weeks back, the Edisons joined the Southern Counties Gas company, 6 to 5, at Poly field last night and won its way into a tie for the city crown. The game attracted a capacity house to the little indoor baseball grounds, proving that the night game can be made most popular when played under strict and proper ruling.

When the McFaddens and the Edisons will tangle in their match for the league championship had not been announced late today. Managers of the teams were to confer tomorrow in an effort to set a definite time for the struggle. It is understood that Thursday night is acceptable to both sides. Friday night has been set aside for the Santa Ana Chamber of Commerce nine, the city's hope in the Southern California league, to meet Orange here.

Wayne Nelson, the "Dizzy" Vance of the City league, and Ray Price, the slow ball expert, were the opposing jugglers last night and both were as hard to hit as a fleeing buck. Nelson had difficulty in locating the plate with his fast one and passed five batters, three of whom scored. Price allowed only one hit but his support was nothing to write home about so the breaks was about even all around.

The Gas company jumped into the lead when W. Nelson got a blow to start the second inning and scored while Price was fanning Gibson and Weber, walking Sid Allender and whiffing Mortimer.

Four more tallies were made by the Gas company in the third stanza on five successive Edison errors. Leading 5 to 0, the gas men apparently were "in" with the game but the Pole-Climbers came back like a bad check. Their come-back began in the fourth when with one down Kornder singled, Dockstadter walked and Walters singled. Another marker was pushed around in the fifth on a pass to Frank Phillips and Ec Lacy's single.

The Edisons ganged together in the last of the sixth and made their last three and winning tallies. During this rally Dockstadter was safe on an error, Walters walked, Price singled and Phillips walked.

The box score:

GOODRICH, LOAYZA SURVIVE TOURNEY

Buffalo Battler, Chilean to Meet In Finals For Lightweight Title

NEW YORK, June 16.—Jimmy Goodrich, the rugged Buffalo boy, and Stanislaus Loayza, a product of Chile, are the survivors of the semi-final round of the lightweight elimination tournament and will meet in the Queensborough stadium July 6.

The New York Boxing commission, which organized the tournament, will recognize the winner of the next bout as the world's lightweight champion, succeeding Benny Leonard, who retired.

From the class that was shown by the winners of last night's bouts, the commission's new champion will be a very ordinary champion and will be the champion only as long as he can avoid young Sammy Mandell or Sid Terris.

Leonard may blow up the works if he comes out of retirement. There are well founded rumors that he is going to return to the ring.

Loayza, in his victory over Cirillo Olana, the dusky Cuban, looked much better than Goodrich, who went through 12 sad, slow rounds to win a decision from the veteran Benny Valgar.

The Chilean polished off the Cuban in less than three full rounds and he showed a fine punch in addition to very aggressive style.

ord that supports the claim of his admiring partisans. There may be grounds to dispute Bobby's place as a golfer, but no one will deny that he is the most beloved player in the game.

ORANGE HOPES FOR FOOTBALL TITLE IN '25

Orange, "steamed up" over the success of its high school football squad last fall, is hoping for a Southern California championship in 1925. Coach M. J. Berg's eleven was semi-finalist last season. Although a number of veterans depart from the school this month many players of experience will be available when muleskin drill is begun in September.

The 1925 grid forces will be led by Captain Walter Heinecke, star guard on last year's squad, who will probably be shifted to quarterback. Fleet, brainy and experienced, Heinecke has many of the qualifications for an adept signal caller and should make good at the new job.

The backfield next year will be light, but fast, putting into use a different system of offensive than that which was utilized by last year's line smashing team. Besides Captain Heinecke, others who are scheduled to get the nod in the backfield include Ivyl Lee, a strapping, but fleet back, Jeffries, quarter on last year's 130s, and Guldridge, a flashy back, who gives promise of developing into a brilliant open field performer.

The line, from all appearance, will be big and rangy, with plenty of weight to stand the most severe punishment. The average will run close to 180, from tackle to tackle.

Tommy Townes, veteran tackle, who with Heinecke is the only regular remaining from last year's squad, will again hold down a tackle berth, with Dick Wilson, from last year's seconds, as his running mate. George Meyer, a giant linesman, with a year's experience behind him, will probably get the call at one guard, with White, a new and experienced member of last year's second team, holding down the other side.

Keightley, last year's reserve center, will occupy the pivot position. Keightley, a big strapping fellow, is a demon on defense and if he can develop an offensive to match should prove a tower of strength in the line.

While the backfield and line are rounding out in excellent shape, Berg is confronted with his chief problems in filling the win berths vacated by Bill Ralph and Lavell Durrell. A number of candidates reported for spring practice for the positions, but the majority are handicapped by the lack of weight. However, there is always the possibility of new and experienced material entering school next term and the weak places can be plugged then.

Low Score Golf Players Receive Handsome Award

Members of the Santa Ana Junior Chamber of Commerce who turned in low qualifying scores for the boost body's golf tournament were presented with handsome gold pencils last night when the organization held its semi-monthly meeting at Ketter's cafe. Z. B. West Jr., E. M. Sundquist, Lea Hartfield and Jack Campbell were those receiving the awards.

Medal play, to last 30 days, now is under way on the chamber's golf tournament. First rounds must be completed by Monday. A silver loving cup, presented by Leo Hartfield, local jeweler, will go to the winner of the 72-hole test.

COBB'S FIRST LIEUTENANTS HELP MANAGE DETROIT TEAM

LEFT TO RIGHT—OSCAR STANAGE AND GEORGE McBRIDE

Here are the two players Ty Cobb is leaning on most in his quest for the 1925 American league pennant. No, they are not present-day stars, but former celebrities who have outlived their careers as regulars.

George McBride, one of the greatest fielding shortstops the game has ever produced, who managed Washington prior to his retirement from the majors, is Cobb's right-hand man in directing the club.

Oscar Stanage has charge of the pitchers. His job is as important, if not more so, than McBride's, for pitching is the thing. Stanage, although he has been out of the majors for several years, is still a capable catcher. He caught 100 games last year for Toronto in the International league.

BILLY EVANS Says

THE LIVELY BALL Not only is the lively ball now in use in the major leagues making for more home runs, but it is establishing a high-water mark for injuries as well.

Never in the history of the major leagues have so many players suffered minor and serious injuries. In a majority of cases the accident can be directly traced to the lively ball.

The manufacturers say the ball is just the same as in past years. They should know. Major league pitchers insist the horseshoe is filled with dynamite or some other high explosive.

The other day I saw Ken Williams, slugging outfielder of the St. Louis Browns, practically punt a ball into the right field stands at the Yankee Stadium in New York.

Only the fact that it was foul by a foot prevented the making of a home run on a ball at which Williams didn't even take a half swing.

It was a low curve inside. Williams murders such a ball. He started to swing then realized the ball would be too low. The contact of the ball with the bat was little more than a bump, yet it carried into the bleachers.

Injuries Handicap In a recent game at Chicago, Pitcher Johnson of Detroit was struck in the face with a line drive. The ball came back at him so quickly he didn't have time to get his hands up.

Major league pitchers insist it was never more difficult to be a consistent winner. They point to the many high score games of the year and the big innings. Ten years ago a three-run lead made a pitcher feel pretty secure. Today a three-run lead means nothing. It can be wiped out in a jiffy. The lively ball and short fences are the bane of the major league twirlers. Incidentally, the lively ball has

TUNNEY NEEDS MORE TO BEAT CHAMP, CLAIM

By HENRY L. FARRELL
(United Press Sports Editor)

NEW YORK, June 16.—Friends of Gene Tunney—and he has a tremendous personal following—are enthused over his chances of ascending to the heavyweight championship of the world. Tunney's knockout victory over Tom Gibbons, a boxer who had never been knocked off his feet before, elevated him to a place among the leading rivals of Jack Dempsey, but it is possible that too much is being made over the class shown by Tunney in that fight.

Tunney fought a cool, calculating fight against Gibbons and he flashed some very fine boxing, but he did not impress the critics with his punching. It is true that he knocked Gibbons out, but it was not the Gibbons who had stayed fifteen rounds with Dempsey. It was a Gibbons aged by two more years and a Gibbons that was exhausted from the heat and harried by worry over the condition of a wife on the point of death at home. Gibbons could have been pushed over by a lightweight in the twelfth round of that contest, as he was so completely exhausted that his legs collapsed under him and he couldn't lift his arms. He went out very much like Jess Willard did in the Firpo fight, although he made a much more gallant effort to get to his feet than Willard did.

Tunney will have to get more steam in his punches if he is to beat Dempsey before the champion goes the way of Gibbons through age or inactivity, and he will have to punch harder if he is to beat Jimmy Slattery, Harry Wills, Paul Berlenbach, some of the others who may dispute his claim for first crack at the championship.

Tunney has a few defects as a fighter and in the clever hands of Billy Gibson and George Engel these defects should be polished off by experience. Personally Tunney is one of the finest characters in the game. He has been a credit to boxing and success will not spoil him. He is a war veteran, who served with honor in France as a member of the Marines. He is a member of the Irish settlement in New York, and if he should get to the top he would be one of the most popular of all the heavyweight champions.

TAYLOR, GOOZEMAN OPPONENTS TONIGHT

LOS ANGELES, June 16.—Bud Taylor, who wins as easily as a two-headed coin, will swap punches with a tough customer called Ernie Goozeman tonight at the Vernon arena in the ten-round main event.

To the customers Taylor who comes from Indiana, will figure away up in the opinion of sporting men, because of his recent win over Jimmy McFadden, but native sons will root for Ernie, and some others will place their money on him.

Johnny Murphy, who punched a decisive win over Harry Ritzer two weeks ago, will meet Sailor Billy Vincent in the six-round semi-wind-up. If Murphy trims the go's sails he is set to steam in the main event class.

Le Roy, who arrived in Los Angeles Sunday, hopes to catch up with "Ace" on the coast for another if he comes out of retirement, can lick Hudkins here he will cash in on some of the million dollar publicity the Nebraska boy got before Tommy O'Brien met him.

Establishes Links Record by Driving Ball For 470 Yards

JIMMY GULLANE

Jimmy Gullane, Colorado golfer, stepped into the spotlight recently when he drove a golf ball 470 yards for what is said to be a new world record for distance. It's quite a feat at that, and if you don't think so, try it some day when you're out on the old links.

Triple Tie For 'Y' Indoor Baseball Title Broken; Go-Getters In Running

Two teams of the Santa Ana Y. M. C. A. league were in the lime-light today as potential champions of the boys' indoor baseball circuit.

The decisive match will be played between the Wintersburg Go-Getters and the First Methodist Trojans. A three cornered tie for the league title was broken when the Trojan team eliminated the First Presbyterian Blue-Streaks last night by a score of 9 to 6 in a match played at the "Y" athletic field.

Piping 'Em Off

Yesterday's hero—Eddie Moore, the Pirates infielder, tripled and scored one run and drove in two more runs with a single, beating the Giants, 7 to 5. The Giants' lead was whittled to 3½ games.

Eleven runs behind going into the eighth inning, the Philadelphia Athletics were wild, scored 13 runs and beat the Indians, 17 to 15.

Pete Donohue started two tallies with singles and scored two of the runs that helped the Reds beat the Robins, 5 to 2.

Heavy hitting behind Rhem's good pitching gave the Cards a 6 to 4 victory over the Phillies. It was the ninth straight defeat for the Phils.

LINCOLN, Neb., June 16.—Un-

 McMillen, the state of Nebraska

 the retail price of coal through-and the state gasoline filling sta-

It was then the state went into the banking business. The legislature, the bankers demanded and secured the enactment of a law that created a state guaranty fund commission, which was empowered to take over all failed banks from the receivers. That was put on top of the great drain consequent upon paying receivers and their attorneys.

But the law went still further. It provided that when any going bank was found to be headed for insolvency this commission was empowered to send one of its members to take charge of it. If the bank could not be saved, they would deal with debtors with a velvet glove. He made them pay. If they did not have the money he made them sell stock, crops, or whatever they had on hand. That the five-year-old trees the secretary of the banking department, who is head of the guaranty fund commission, to take steps at as early a date as possible to dispose of these banks.

There will be offered for sale to the other bank or banks in the towns in which they are located.

Loss Cheaper Than Operation

All of the bad-paper will be first taken out and taken over by the commission. The remainder of the paper will be left in under a guarantee by the commission that it will make good any losses.
This will make their purchase attractive to competitors.

An additional loss of six millions to the guaranty fund commission will be caused by disposing of these banks, but it is figured that this method will be cheaper than attempting to run them by the state, as representative of the de-

Wants Damages

BLUEFIELD, W. Va., June 16.—One of the most novel damage suits ever instituted in West Virginia has come up in circuit court here. Mrs. Ellen Howard asks $10,000 for the mental distress and physical suffering she has suffered as a result of seeing one of the company's employees kill a cow.

The cow had been struck by a train of the Virginian and knocked over a bank on the main line, and the animal was found so badly injured that it was decided to kill it, and a trainman with a hammer dispatched the cow with a blow on the head.

The plaintiff declares that owing to her enfeebled health the slaying of the cow in her presence cost her a shock and resulted in

EVENING SALUTATION

It cheers the heart when tempest-tossed,
Oh! never, then refuse one;

And lulls the cares that bruise one;
It scatters sunshine o'er our way,
And turns our thorns to roses;
It changes weary night and day,
And hope and love discloses."

TO AMUNDSEN'S RESCUE

Amundsen is probably safe for the present, wherever he is, if he did not fall into the icy water of the Arctic ocean or come to grief in landing. He had equipment and provisions with him for an extended siege. There is perhaps an even chance that he and his American companion are either travelling over Arctic ice or waiting for rescue.

It is without despair, therefore, that America makes ready to join Norway and France in relief efforts. And the method adopted by this country seems likely to succeed, if any success is possible.

The MacMillan party, with its three airplanes, will be diverted from its original purpose to seek Amundsen as soon as it has established its base at Etah, which may be remembered as the base of Cook and Peary, and which is not very far from Amundsen's intended course. With those planes they should be able to cover a wide area quickly. If one or two planes go wrong, there will still be hope. Amundsen's greatest error, if efforts there were, consisted in putting all his hopes and chances in one plane.

AN OLD-WORLD MIRACLE

"Italian trains run on time," reports an American tourist. "Credit is given to Mussolini."

Thus briefly is a miracle related. Who, under any previous Italian government, ever heard of Italian trains being habitually on time?

The tourist in the old days found Italian leisure all the more notable by contrast with German efficiency. German trains, whatever they may be now, were always on time in the pre-war days. Such was the promptness, order and system of that country that at crossings the gate-keepers lowered and raised their gates by schedule, without looking to see whether the trains were coming or not, and nearly always hit it on the dot.

In France, trains might or might not be on time. In Italy, it was something to wonder at when they arrived or departed on time. There was on country, however, surpassing Italy in that respect. Tourists averred that no Spanish train was ever known to be on time. Also that there was an authentic case of a passenger train that had got lost and no trace of it was ever discovered.

Caesarism or no Caesarism, it is a great achievement to make Italian trains run on time. And what matter if it be Mussolini time? Mussolini will soon square that by running the sun, moon and stars.

RUM AND TREATIES

A new "prohibition navy" has taken the offensive on the Great Lakes, as well as along the coast. Armed vessels are now actively engaged there in hunting smugglers in what is said to be at least technical violation of the old Russ-Bagot treaty between Canada and the United States. That pact severely limits the armed forces of both countries on the intervening waters.

It was feared that Canada would make a formal protest, demanding a literal application of the treaty and thereby eliminating most of the rum-chasers. But so far, the Canadian government has refrained from action, and United States officials are avoiding discussion of the subject for fear of "starting something."

If Canada is really disposed to stand for a slight technical invasion of her treaty rights, it is a gracious attitude, and also a wise one. For to protest against the operations of the rum-chasers would place Canada in the position of protecting her own smugglers and trying to force a market for her contraband liquor in the States. The spirit of the treaty is more important than the letter, and there is no question about the government and people on this side of the border obeying the spirit of it.

OUTLAWING POISON GAS

The American public had just about lost interest and hope in the Geneva arms traffic conference when it was announced, the other day, that asphyxiating gas was to be outlawed.

Nothing could please humanitarians more than such a step. "Poison gas," in spite of all the clever arguments made for it, is one of the most dreadful things about modern warfare. The public has never forgotten the horror with which it first learned of this particular form of barbarity. The "gassed" soldiers have not forgotten it. There is a widespread fear that unless use of it is suppressed, future warfare will see the merciless asphyxiation of whole civilian populations as well as armies. The "protocol" in which the prohibition is to be embodied will be awaited eagerly by the world.

It is especially pleasing to know that the decision in favor of banning poison gas was due so largely to the appeal of the American delegation.

The conference's decision regarding warships and airplanes has been reconsidered, too, and there is a prospect of doing something to restrict traffic in those types of armament. The conference evidently has been so jarred by public criticism, especially in America, that it is now really trying to accomplish something useful.

NEEDS TWO GOVERNORS

"What New York needs," says Governor Smith, "is two governors. One would stay at the capital in Albany. The other, supplied with half a dozen dinner coats, would do the hand-shaking and speech-making. Then we could say, 'Let there be no sizable gathering in the state without the presence of the governor.' If you ask me which governor I would be, I would say the one at Albany, because I would live longer."

It was meant humorously, yet there is an undercurrent of seriousness in the proposal that any holder of an important public office will appreciate. As Governor Smith implies, the social functions that an executive in his position is expected to assume are likely to be more crushing than the business functions. No man can attend adequately to both. This is true of all governorships. It is still more tragically true of the Presidency.

What Gov. Smith suggests for governors is really coming about with regard to the chief executive job of many cities. Often the business duties are given to a city manager and the formal, social duties to a mayor, who has little else to do than represent the city in an ornamental way. That works pretty well, when the duties are so clearly divided that there is no clash, and the right type of man is chosen for each.

Los Angeles In Control

Redlands Facts.

The Santa Ana Register is at hand with an editorial seeming to reflect a desire to be counted in as one of the cities or counties or other units to take part in bringing Colorado river water to the coast, yet if memory serves correctly, the representative of Orange county in the legislature, at the session just closed, opposed joining with other cities of the south to form a water district for that purpose. The situation suddenly becomes acute through the fact that the voters of Los Angeles city, last Tuesday, voted by a very heavy majority for that city to go ahead and plan for Colorado river water, the natural assumption being that Los Angeles plans "to go it alone" in the matter, bring in the water, and then sell to whom it pleases and on such terms as it pleases.

The Metropolitan Water District bill, as it was termed, got off to a bad start in the legislature, due to the poor work in preparing it after a model of the unlamented Water Power act. This gave those who do not want the Colorado river development to take place a perfectly good excuse for opposing it, and the measure never recovered from the black eye it received because of faulty construction. In its final shape it provided but the machinery by which the cities of the South might combine together if they chose, none entering the combination unless it wished, to bring in the Colorado river water for domestic purposes.

Most of the Los Angeles assemblymen opposed the bill, the representative from Whittier took charge of the fight against it, the Orange county man joined, and the bill was beaten. Now Los Angeles says she will go it alone, and the suggestion is that any city which wishes to get any of the water can come in at the same price that has been made by Los Angeles to adjoining communities, if they wish any of the Owens river water—annexation to the city of Los Angeles.

Hurrah For L. A.!

San Diego Sun.

Citizens of Los Angeles are under no illusions any longer about Boulder dam and the Swing-Johnson bill. By their votes yesterday they gave a ringing endorsement to the project and a stinging defeat to the power trust crowd, headed by Harry Chandler of the Los Angeles Times. That once all-powerful newspaper has lost its hold apparently.

Congressman Phil Swing has a right to regard the Los Angeles vote as a personal victory and endorsement. He comes out of the fight stronger than ever. In view of the bitter attacks that have been made on him lately, this should be a matter of supreme gratification to him.

The same tactics have been employed against other men in the federal service who have favored the Boulder dam project. A. P. Davis, former director of reclamation, was ousted as a result of pressure from enemies of the Swing-Johnson bill. F. B. Weymouth, former chief engineer of the reclamation service, was forced to resign on the same account. Now they are after Elwood Mead, present director of reclamation. Governor Richardson is pinch-hitting for the power trust in his case by assailing Mead for failure of the California state land claim at Delhi.

It's a long and difficult fight, but the Los Angeles victory is a rainbow in the sky.

Music Prevents Stampede

Long Beach Press-Telegram.

Music hath charms, not only to soothe the savage breast, but to prevent a crowd of civilized mortals from turning into a wild mob. And it was jazz music, at that, according to reports from Omaha which tells of the heroic performance of a negro band at the race track in the face of a storm that all but stampeded a great throng in the grand stand. The musicians played their hardest until the several thousand spectators had dispersed in orderly fashion, although the whirling storm was pelting them with chairs, cushions and timbers. They were highly complimented by General George S. Duncan, Commander of the Seventh Army Corps area, who witnessed their performance. "You were soldiers to the last," he said. His opinion has general approval by all those who shared the experience.

YOUR HEALTH

By DR. CLIFFORD C. ROBINSON

LASTING DISEASES

No doubt you are more or less familiar with some people who have what may be called lasting diseases. Oftentimes these people, while incurable, either in their own minds or in reality, are well enough to be up and around.

Consumption is perhaps the best known of this group of long-lived diseases. The question is often asked: "Is it catching?" While sunlight and open air will offset, or render comparatively harmless, any bacilli of consumption which may be deposited out of doors, still the germs are spread and will invade the lungs and lungs if opportunity permits.

The sputum, if not very carefully and hygienically burned, will surely scatter its bacilli, which may be inhaled.

Living with consumptives in the same house is not particularly dangerous if the strictest regulations concerning the hygienic habits are carried out.

Great care must be exercised at or near the end of life of a tubercular person. It is by this class that precautions are not so closely observed by patient or those in attendance, and the danger is great.

Persons who are suffering from tubercular diseases must avoid using the same utensils, garments, bed clothing or other things in the household in order that disease may not be spread to other members.

Don't cough when it can possibly be avoided. A drink of water or weak tea may aid you in controlling the habit or desire. To play safely first, always hold a cloth in front of your mouth while coughing.

The air conditions in a home where consumptives may live with others must be very carefully changed and kept at the right temperature—65-68 degrees. Sleeping with any tubercular person in the same room is dangerous. The living room of any such person should from time to time, say once in two weeks or every week, be thoroughly disinfected with formalin. This will insure a healthy air condition and prevent flies or other insects carrying any bacilli which may infect food or slight wounds.

Greater Safety For School Children

Redlands Facts

National adoption of the principle of teaching highway safety in the public schools, which has been successfully operated under the plan of the safety department of the Automobile Club of Southern California in various cities in this section, is expected as the result of the appeal for such action recently sent to public school superintendents throughout the country by Secretary of Commerce Hoover.

In this request to school authorities for their co-operation, Secretary Hoover called attention to statistics showing that approximately 6,000 children are killed annually by automobiles, which is 30 per cent of all the fatal motor vehicle accidents.

The organization of school boy patrols was especially recommended in this appeal from the Secretary of Commerce. In the plan sponsored by the safety officials of the Automobile Club of Southern California, this patrol system has been operated for several years in Los Angeles and other larger cities of Southern California.

That safety teaching in schools is successful was illustrated by 1924 statistics will show that the child death rate expectancy in Los Angeles had been reduced 21 per cent for the year while facts compiled by the National Safety Council from reports from 80 large cities throughout the nation showed a steady ascending death rate among children, caused by automobiles.

As a beginning of its educational program of extending safety study to every elementary school in Southern California, the big motoring organization of that section which now has a membership of more than 107,000, has established such teaching in the public schools of Los Angeles, Glendale, Bakersfield, Long Beach, Santa Barbara, San Diego, Pasadena, Pomona, Ventura and other cities. The material reduction in child fatality expectancy in Los Angeles last year has attracted nation-wide attention, according to the requests for information from all parts of the country that have been received.

Redlands has fortunately been quite free from fatalities, though there have been some distressing accidents.

CONSOLATION

Great City of the Dead!—in whose embrace Slumber our dear ones, who have gone
Into the vast Unknown, and have been borne Tenderly to their last resting place:
For them, in solaced prayer, we mourn.

Within thy gates all sleep alike in peace!
The haughty master and the humble slave;
The prince, the pauper—and the silly knave.
When death is victor all distinctions cease,
And one and all are equal in the grave.

Great City of the Dead! Some day we too shall lie
Within the holy ground of countless dead;
May we so live that of us it be said
"Such faith they had! They did not fear to die!"
For Faith gives peace and robs Death of its dread.

DISCOURAGEMENT

The neighbor of a man noted for his extreme thrift saw him on a week day dressed in his Sunday clothes.

"What's up, Jim?" he called out. "Why the glad rags?"

"Haven't you heard the news?"

"News! What news?"

"Triplets!"

"Oh, so that accounts for—" began the neighbor, when the thrifty man interrupted him:

"Yes, that accounts for my wearing these clothes. What in thunder's the use of trying to be economical!"—Boston Transcript.

In the Wrong State

San Bernardino Sun

It seems to make a very great difference whether one follows his profession in Missouri or Iowa, particularly when that profession happens to be that of a bank robber. A Twentieth century edition of the James boy, in an unthoughtful moment, strayed across the state line from the commonwealth that Jesse and Frank made famous, and held up a bank in a Des Moines suburb. The lawns were quicker on the draw than the Missourians had expected, and in the battle that followed, the latter got away, somewhat damaged, but with the Hawkeye officers close on the trail. The robbers were captured just after they had got across into Missouri, in the vicinity of St. Joseph, but perhaps counting on their experience with Missouri legal methods to finally effect their escape. Now from this point, let the Kansas City Star tell the story:

The state of law observance in Iowa has been brought into observance in Missouri by the events of the last few days. As soon as he recovered consciousness Joe Wagner, the arrested bandit, accustomed to Missouri procedure, exclaimed, "Send for a lawyer, get a writ." But the business-like Iowa officers discourteously refused to wait for the writ to be served and took the prisoner unceremoniously to an Iowa jail.

The difference in procedure is the result of a difference in the dominating influence in the courts and legislature in the two states. In Missouri lawyers control the Legislature, and the legalistic spirit is dominant in the court. Technicalities are exalted and all efforts to get the procedure revised are carried down to defeat. A trial becomes a legal game, with the advantage distinctly on the side of the Joe Wagners, provided they can afford to hire attorneys with the requisite skill.

Iowa is predominantly a rural state. There are no large cities. The farmers are the dominating influence. Law enforcement is responsive to public sentiment, and there is no disposition to make the Joe Wagners the heroes of a legal game.

Missouri, as the experience with Joe Wagner and a hundred like him has proved, is suffering from an acute attack of legalism from which Iowa fortunately has escaped.

Which is a rather strenuous indictment of the laws of Missouri, and we might as well concede, the laws of California and of many other states. For under the guise of maintaining his legal rights, the lawbreaker can find plenty of means of at least delaying the law if he does not entirely prevent its execution. Hardly a week goes by in California, but is marked by legal battles on the part of some individual accused of serious wrongdoing in some other state, and he and his attorneys seek to hide behind the California laws and evade and escape justice. It is fortunate that there are some states with another kind of legal administration. There will be a tonic in the example.

In The Sixties

The California motorist often fails to appreciate the opportunities for touring available within the state. In this regard, it is interesting to recall the words of Charles W. Dilke, who in the sixties visited California by way of the route which later became the Lincoln highway.

Dilke is chiefly known in literature as the companion of John Keats, the poet, and it was long after the death of Keats that Dilke came to America. His enthusiasm over the scenic attractions of the Eldorado along the shores of the Pacific is expressed in no uncertain terms.

"The oak-filled valleys of the Contra Costa range," wrote Dilke, "have all the pensive repose of the sheltered vales that lie between the Apennines and the Adriatic, but California has the advantage in her skies. Italy has the blue, but not the golden haze. 'Nothing can be more singular than the variety of beauty that lies hid in these Pacific slopes; all that is best in Canada and the eastern states finds more than its equal here.'"

"A few days were all that I could spend in the valleys that lie between the Sierra and the Contra Costa range, basking in a rich sunlight and unsurpassed in the world for climate, scenery and soil. This single state—one of forty-five—has twice the area of Great Britain, the most fertile of known soils and the sun and sea breeze of Greece, western rhapsodies are the expression of the intoxication produced by such a spectacle; but are outdone by facts."

Dilke came across the plains during the later period of the gold rush and his entrance into California was dramatic.—Merced Sun-Star.

ADVENTURES OF THE TWINS
by Olive Roberts Barton

NO. 14—THE GIANT AND THE CAULDRON

"I told you a story about 'The Pot of Gold,'" said Mi O' Mi to the Twins. "That story showed that it is well to believe in many things that we do not see."

"Now, I am going to tell you a story which shows that we cannot—or should not—believe in all the things that we do see."

"For instance once upon a time a man was sent to prison for life because his pipe was found in a house where there had been a robbery. And once I knew a boy who was kept back and not promoted in school, because at examination time he was caught copying. He wasn't copying at all, but watching a fly on his neighbor's desk, which had fallen into the ink-well."

"Is this a fairy story?" asked Nancy, who would rather have listened to one fairy tale than a dozen of any other kind.

"Sort of," nodded Mi O' Mi. "At least it is about a giant."

So he began: "Once upon a time in a country where the high mountains seem to rise right out of the sea, there lived a peasant and his wife and two children."

"Their cottage was on a cliff above the sea and to find pasture for their sheep, the peasant had to climb a steep mountain path with them every morning to a place where it was level and covered with green grass."

"At night he had to bring them down again, for even in the mildest weather it grew very cold in the mountains after sun-down. After the shearing there was danger of them freezing and it would not do to leave them unprotected."

"One night a heavy mist arose from the sea, that looked like a solid gray wall."

"The sun was just about setting as the peasant approached the level place, and at the top of the mountain."

"As he reached the top he stopped to look at the heavy fog below him. Suddenly he started back. For there right on top of the fog bank stood a huge giant in the sky. He stood with his arm on a long staff, as though gazing out over the world."

"The peasant did not look for his sheep, but rushed frightened down the mountain path to his cottage where he was met by his wife, wringing her hands in despair."

"The children are lost!" she cried. "I was down at the beach scouring out the big copper cauldron with sand. I left a few minutes and when I went back they were gone. I have searched everywhere."

"The giant has stolen them!" cried the peasant, telling his own tale of what he had seen on the mountain."

"You see," said Mi O' Mi, "how they jumped at a conclusion without waiting to find out the truth."

"But had he?" asked Nick. "Certainly not," said Mi O' Mi. "There was no giant at all. What the peasant had seen was his own huge shadow reflected on the sky. Others had seen it, too! It sometimes happens when the sun is in a certain position and there is a fog."

"But the children?" said Nancy. "The copper cauldron was so big that the children had crawled inside," said Mi O' Mi. "The tide came up and carried it off to sea to a little island not twenty yards from shore. When the fog went away—there they were, safe and sound. It doesn't do to guess at things, you see."
